

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS AND MULTILATERAL GOVERNANCE

JUNE 6 – JUNE 24, 2011

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND

THE GRADUATE INSTITUTE | GENEVA

The summer programme on International Affairs and Multilateral Governance provides participants with a unique opportunity to learn and think about major current issues in world politics and the resulting challenges for multilateral governance.

The programme makes participants experience the world of multilateralism through direct interaction with diplomats, negotiators and activists and through visits to some of the prominent international organisations located in Geneva.

TARGET AUDIENCE

- Students at MA level or senior undergraduate level with an interest in international affairs
- Young professionals keen to improve their knowledge on major current issues in multilateralism, governance and international affairs

DURATION

This is a 3-week course from June 6 to June 24, 2011. Participants may enrol for the whole programme or for one or two weeks only.

KEY ISSUES IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

The summer programme explores key issues in international affairs with a substantive focus on the three following concentrations:

- Global Public Goods: Health and Environment (week 1)
- Global Migration, Cooperation and Development (week 2)
- Security, Human Rights and Humanitarian Action (week 3)

Lectures and discussions focus on challenges for multilateral governance in these domains, including questions of efficiency, legitimacy, or accountability connected to differences in international institutions and regulation.

The programme includes:

Morning lectures

- Interdisciplinary approach to challenges of governance
- Internationally-renowned professors, and high-level officials from international organisations

Afternoon workshops and visits

- In-depth and small-group study of selected issues addressed in morning lectures
- Visits to international organisations in Geneva

Symposia

- A public lecture or a round table on a topic related to the weekly concentration
- Interface between the international community in Geneva and the summer programme

CREDITS

Participation in at least two weeks of the programme may be accepted for credit at other universities (6–9 ECTS credits; or the US equivalent credits). All participants receive a course certificate.

PROGRAMME FEE

Tuition costs for attending the full three weeks is CHF 3800 (approximately USD 3500 and EUR 2800). Participation on a weekly basis costs CHF 1500 (approximately USD 1400 and EUR 1000) per week. Tuition does not include travel costs, accommodation or other living expenses in Geneva.
