A CAMPUS IN THE HEART OF INTERNATIONAL GENEVA

Our beautiful campus extends from the United Nations Headquarters to the shores of Lake Geneva. Modern buildings such as the Maison de la paix and the Edgar and Danièle de Picciotto Student House juxtapose historic villas and the headquarters of the World Trade Organization,

UNHCR, the ICRC and other leading organisations. The Institute is building a new student residence designed by world-renowned architect Kengo Kuma, which will add 700 beds to the existing 250-capacity of the Edgar and Danièle de Picciotto Student House.

“ Being located in the heart of International Geneva gives our students a major advantage, helping them build a network of connections before going out into the job market. ”

RICHARD BALDWIN, Professor,
International Economics

“ The Institute is a place where different opinions are valued, and at the same time challenged, which is extremely intellectually stimulating. ”

VIVIAN LIANG, Master student,
Anthropology and Sociology
