UN POINT D'ÉTAPE

2016 a marqué la fin de notre convention de financement quadriennale avec les autorités fédérales et cantonales. En cours d'année, une évaluation externe a permis de faire un point d'étape et de préparer une convention d'objectifs pour la période 2017-2020. Rétrospectivement, ce qui ressort de la dernière période et qu'a souligné l'évaluation est l'image d'une institution qui a poursuivi son essor à un rythme soutenu.

Parmi les principales réalisations, il faut mentionner la mise en place d'infrastructures de qualité (achèvement de la Maison des étudiants Edgar et Danièle de Picciotto en 2012 et de la Maison de la paix entre 2012 et 2015, préparatifs pour une nouvelle résidence d'étudiants depuis 2015), la consolidation des conditions-cadres (reconnaissance en 2012 par la législation genevoise, révision en 2016 de la convention avec l'Université de Genève) et le renforcement de notre assise financière. En effet, grâce aux revenus des projets immobiliers, de la recherche et de la formation continue et à de généreux financements philanthropiques, l'Institut a pu absorber pendant les derniers quatre ans une perte de subventions publiques de près de 10 millions de francs sur un peu plus de 40 millions. En 2015, il a même vu, pour la première fois, ses fonds tiers dépasser en importance les subventions publiques (la part de ces dernières dans le budget de fonctionnement diminuant de 60% en 2008 à 39% en 2016).

Cette évolution favorable a permis un renforcement de substance par l'engagement de 25 nouveaux professeurs, ce qui a été fait en cherchant à rééquilibrer la part des jeunes et des femmes – le pourcentage de ces dernières parmi les professeurs est passé de 22% en 2012 à 30% en 2016 –, tout en étendant le réseau de collaborations académiques à travers le monde, en particulier dans le Sud. Parallèlement, un effort constant a été déployé pour améliorer la manière dont l'Institut remplit sa mission, notamment par le développement du système d'assurance-qualité et la stimulation d'un esprit de communauté englobant toutes les composantes de la vie institutionnelle: étudiants, enseignants, collaborateurs et alumni.

En ce point de départ d'une nouvelle convention quadriennale, qui s'accompagne d'une réduction, certes plus limitée, du soutien public, l'Institut peut regarder avec assurance vers l'avenir et la réalisation de sa mission: celle d'une institution universitaire de réputation mondiale ayant un rapport privilégié avec la communauté internationale et qui le montre par son rôle dans le débat public et la fourniture d'expertise.

Revision of the convention with the University of Geneva, which strengthens the partnership between the two institutions and clarifies their relations; the Institute is now completely autonomous and registers its students.

Emménagement de l'Institut dans la Maison de la paix au cœur de la Genève internationale. Ce bâtiment devient l'immeuble phare du Campus de la paix et le siège de l'Institut.

The Institute moves into Maison de la paix in the heart of International Geneva. The flagship building of Campus de la paix becomes the Institute's headquarters.

Signature d'un accord-cadre avec le Département fédéral des affaires étrangères qui met en valeur le rôle particulier de l'Institut comme interlocuteur académique de la Genève internationale. Reconnaissance par le Parlement genevois d'un statut de haute école à côté de l'Université de Genève et des Hautes Écoles spécialisées.

Signing of a framework agreement with the Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs that underlines the unique role of the Institute as International Geneva's academic partner. Recognition of the Institute by the Parliament of Geneva as an institution of higher education, alongside the University of Geneva and the Universities of Applied Sciences and Arts.

Accréditation de l'Institut par le Secrétariat d'État à la formation, à la recherche et à l'innovation.

Accreditation of the Institute by the Swiss State Secretariat for Education, Research and Innovation.

2009

Sous l'impulsion de la Confédération helvétique et du canton de Genève, les deux instituts se réunissent, plaçant sous un même toit les relations internationales et les études du développement et intégrant de manière novatrice les perspectives et les sensibilités du Nord et du Sud.

The two institutes merged, bringing the study of international relations and development together under one roof and at the same time integrating perspectives from the North and South in novel ways.

Création du Centre genevois pour la formation des cadres africains, qui devient en 1962 l'Institut africain de Genève et, en 1973, l'Institut d'études du développement.

L'Institut de hautes études internationales et du développement

The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies

L'Institut de hautes études internationales et du développement est un établissement universitaire de recherche et d'enseignement postgrade, spécialisé dans l'étude des affaires mondiales, au croisement des relations internationales et des questions de développement.

L'Institut a été accrédité en 2009 par le gouvernement suisse et est inscrit depuis 2012 dans la législation cantonale comme l'une des hautes écoles soutenues par l'État de Genève, au même titre que l'Université de Genève.

Installé au cœur de la Genève internationale, l'Institut offre des programmes d'études disciplinaires et interdisciplinaires au niveau du master et du doctorat. Il produit une recherche à la fois fondamentale et appliquée sur les principales thématiques du monde international contemporain. Il a également pour vocation d'offrir une expertise ainsi que des programmes de formation et d'être une plateforme de débat et de dialogue à l'intention des acteurs internationaux, en particulier dans les champs d'activité suivants :

- la coopération internationale, qu'il s'agisse d'administrations nationales à rayon d'action international (ministères des affaires étrangères, du commerce, de l'économie, de la santé, banques centrales, etc.), d'organisations intergouvernementales ou encore d'organisations non gouvernementales
- les affaires internationales, notamment les entreprises multinationales, le secteur financier, les cabinets d'avocats, les sociétés de conseil et de relations publiques
- l'analyse des questions internationales, à savoir l'enseignement et la recherche universitaire, les think tanks, les fondations internationales, les médias, etc.

The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies is an institution of research and higher education dedicated to the study of world affairs, with a particular emphasis on the cross-cutting fields of international relations and development issues.

The Institute was accredited in 2009 by the Swiss government and has been enshrined in cantonal legislation since 2012 as one of the institutions of higher education supported by the State of Geneva, along with the University of Geneva.

Situated in the heart of International Geneva, the Institute offers disciplinary and interdisciplinary master and PhD programmes. It produces both fundamental and applied research focusing on today's major international issues. It also provides expertise and training programmes and is a platform for debate and dialogue for international actors, in particular from the following fields:

- international cooperation, including national administrations working on international issues (ministries of foreign affairs, trade, economy, health, central banks, etc.), intergovernmental as well as non-governmental organisations
- international business, notably multinational companies, the finance sector, law firms, consulting and public relations agencies
- analysis of global issues, such as university-level teaching and research, think tanks, international foundations, the media, etc.

L'ambition et les valeurs

Ambition and Values

L'Institut a pour ambition de compter parmi les meilleurs établissements académiques au monde. Il met au service de cette ambition des atouts qui lui donnent un profil distinctif :

- la réunion sous un même toit du droit international et des principales disciplines des sciences sociales (anthropologie, économie, histoire, science politique, sociologie), ce qui lui permet d'approcher les questions mondiales à partir d'angles multiples
- la densité de l'expertise produite par une centaine d'enseignants-chercheurs et 350 doctorants qui utilisent avec profit un environnement fait de maîtrise disciplinaire et de stimulation interdisciplinaire
- la localisation au cœur de la Genève internationale, l'un des principaux centres mondiaux de la gouvernance internationale
- un cosmopolitisme qui nourrit une expérience immédiate de la diversité du monde et valorise le respect de cette diversité

Dans toutes ses activités, l'Institut s'appuie sur des valeurs qui fondent sa mission. Il entend notamment :

- promouvoir la coopération internationale en proposant une réflexion novatrice sur les défis du monde contemporain
- apporter une contribution académique au développement de sociétés moins favorisées
- encourager un sentiment de responsabilité globale
- favoriser le respect de la diversité

The Institute strives to be among the best academic institutions in the world. To achieve this ambition, it uses its unique strengths:

- its combined focus on international law and the main social science disciplines (anthropology, economics, history, political science, sociology), which enables it to tackle global challenges from multiple angles
- the depth of knowledge produced by more than 100 faculty members and researchers, as well as 350 PhD candidates who benefit from the Institute's disciplinary expertise and interdisciplinary stimulation
- its location in the heart of International Geneva, one of the world's main centres of international governance
- a cosmopolitan environment reflecting the world's diversity and enhancing respect for cultural differences

In all of its activities, the Institute is guided by fundamental values at the core of its mission, which include:

- promoting international cooperation by fostering innovative thinking on today's global challenges
- providing an academic contribution to the development of less-privileged societies
- instilling global responsibility
- encouraging respect for diversity

La communauté de l'Institut

The Institute's Community

Les collaborateurs administratifs et techniques, les professeurs et les étudiants forment une communauté qui partage les valeurs inscrites dans la Charte de l'Institut : l'excellence, l'indépendance, la responsabilité, la solidarité et la diversité. Les anciens étudiants font partie intégrante de cette communauté à travers l'attachement à leur alma mater et leurs multiples formes de sympathie et de soutien.

Administrative and technical staff, faculty and students form a community that shares the values set out in the Charter of the Institute: excellence, independence, responsibility, solidarity and diversity. Alumni also belong to this community thanks to their attachment to their alma mater and their multiple forms of appreciation and support.

La bourse de la communauté de l'Institut

Depuis quatre ans, la communauté de l'Institut se mobilise pour offrir une bourse d'études à un étudiant talentueux du Sud. Cette bourse témoigne de la solidarité du personnel administratif et enseignant, du Conseil de fondation et des professeurs retraités envers les étudiants de l'Institut.

En 2016, le bénéficiaire était RODRIGUO FAGUNDES CEZAR, doctorant en relations internationales/science politique originaire du Brésil. Avant de venir à l'Institut, Rodrigo était chercheur et assistant de projet auprès du Programme des Nations Unies pour le développement au Brésil après avoir obtenu un master en relations internationales du San Tiago Dantas Postgraduate Programme – un programme conjoint des São Paulo State University, University of Campinas et Pontifical Catholic University de São Paulo.

L'Institut soutient des réfugiés par l'ouverture de cours de français et la création d'une bourse

Profondément préoccupé par l'ampleur de la crise migratoire et par le sort des dizaines de milliers de personnes cherchant refuge en dehors des zones de guerre – y compris en Suisse –, l'Institut a décidé de collaborer avec l'initiative étudiante « Migration » (voir p. 40) à deux projets : l'ouverture de ses cours de français à des réfugiés et requérants d'asile et la création de la bourse pour réfugiés de l'Institut.

À travers ces actions, l'Institut manifeste son soutien et sa solidarité aux personnes forcées de quitter leur pays et d'interrompre leur formation à cause de la guerre ou de circonstances difficiles.

Le Conseil de fondation

L'Institut est une fondation de droit privé, dont le Conseil est composé de personnalités venant du monde universitaire, des organisations internationales, des médias et du secteur privé.

La stratégie du Conseil de fondation est fondée sur trois principes :

- l'amélioration continue de la qualité des prestations de l'Institut, notamment en matière d'enseignement et de recherche
- la gestion efficace et flexible des moyens
- l'augmentation et la diversification des revenus propres, qu'ils proviennent de contrats de recherche, de la formation continue, de partenariats public-privé ou de dons philanthropiques

L'Institut rejoint le réseau International Gender Champions – Geneva

Débat public du 8 mars 2016.

L'International Gender Champions – Geneva est un réseau de dirigeants de la Genève internationale qui œuvrent pour le progrès de l'égalité de genre dans leurs organisations par des actions concrètes et mesurables. En soutenant cette initiative, l'Institut s'engage à améliorer la parité hommes-femmes dans ses panels, à mettre en place un plan d'action pour l'égalité de genre et à renforcer la recherche sur ce thème.

L'Institut est actif dans ce domaine depuis 2003, date de la création du Pôle genre et développement, qui fait partie du Centre genre (voir p. 49). Ce dernier, qui fait le lien entre la recherche, l'enseignement et les politiques publiques, est dirigé par Elisabeth Prügl, professeur de relations internationales/science politique et spécialiste des questions de genre. « Les recherches que nous menons au Centre genre explorent les rapports de genre dans les affaires internationales, dans des domaines allant du peacebuilding aux investissements agricoles et sur des thèmes tels que les inégalités de genre dans les organisations ou les efforts d'intégration transversale du genre », précise le professeur Prügl.

L'Institut s'efforce, depuis plusieurs années déjà, de recruter des femmes, notamment dans le corps professoral où le déséquilibre de genre est encore important.

Les Distinguished Fellows

Le cercle des Distinguished Fellows, placé sous le patronage de Kofi Annan, ancien secrétaire général des Nations Unies et alumnus de l'Institut, est formé d'éminentes personnalités qui participent à la vie intellectuelle de l'Institut, l'aident de leurs conseils et de leur réseau et contribuent à son rayonnement.

Les anciens

La communauté des anciens de l'Institut compte plus de 15 000 membres, qui travaillent dans de nombreux secteurs d'activité dans plus de 100 pays. Vingt et un chapitres ont été créés par les anciens, dont le dernier en date est celui de Beijing. Ces chapitres manifestent la fierté d'appartenir à la communauté de l'Institut et de pouvoir bénéficier d'un réseau et de conseils. Ils apportent leur soutien à la promotion de l'Institut dans les régions où ils sont implantés en organisant des manifestations et en offrant un point de contact à de futurs étudiants avant leur arrivée à l'Institut.

Les anciens étudiants de l'Institut font partie de l'Association des anciens, gérée par un comité qui se caractérise par sa dimension internationale et son rôle de conseil stratégique auprès de la direction de l'Institut. Ses priorités sont de promouvoir l'Institut, d'accroître sa visibilité et de tisser un réseau de contacts professionnels dynamiques.

Alumni

The Institute's Alumni Community is made up of over 15,000 members who work in numerous sectors of activity in over 100 countries. Twenty-one chapters have been established around the world, the most recent of which is in Beijing. These chapters illustrate alumni pride in belonging to the Institute's community and in being able to benefit from an advisory network. They also support the promotion of the Institute in the regions in which they operate by organising events and by providing a point of contact for future students before their arrival at the Institute.

All alumni are members of the Alumni Association, managed by an international committee that plays a strategic advisory role alongside the Institute's director. Its main priorities are to promote the Institute, increase its visibility, and foster the development of a dynamic network of professional contacts.

La réunion des alumni 2016

La Réunion des alumni, dont l'édition 2016 s'est tenue du 4 au 6 novembre, a permis à plus de 500 anciens étudiants de se retrouver autour de différents événements : des débats sur des sujets d'actualité, des rencontres avec des étudiants, des visites de la Maison de la paix, ainsi que le dîner de gala. Cette réunion a également été marquée par la remise des prix de l'Association des anciens étudiants de l'Institut (AAID). Cette initiative du Comité de l'AAID vise à distinguer des alumni pour leur engagement vis-à-vis de l'Institut ou leurs réalisations professionnelles. Pour cette première, le Comité de l'AAID a décidé d'attribuer le Prix de l'alumna de l'année à LORA PAPPA (licence en relations internationales, 1988), fondatrice de l'ONG grecque METAdrasi et spécialiste de l'aide aux enfants réfugiés. Le Prix de l'engagement au service de l'Association et de l'Institut a été décerné à MICHEL BARDE (diplôme, 1975), ancien membre du Conseil de fondation de HEI et président de l'Association des anciens étudiants de HEI entre 1977 et 1982.

La bourse des anciens étudiants de l'Institut

Pour la deuxième année, la communauté des alumni s'est mobilisée afin de récolter les fonds nécessaires pour soutenir un étudiant de l'Institut. Cette année, MEENAKSHI NAIR AMBUJAM (Inde), doctorante en anthropologie et sociologie du développement, est l'heureuse lauréate de la Bourse des anciens étudiants de l'Institut. Elle a obtenu son master en études du développement au Tata Institute of Social Sciences.

2016 Washington DC Alumni Chapter Scholarship

MONICA MA (USA), first year master student in Development Studies, is this year's laureate of the Washington DC Alumni Chapter scholarship. She graduated summa cum laude from the University of California, Los Angeles, with a major in history and a minor in Africa and Middle East Studies. The Washington DC Alumni Chapter scholarship has the objective of promoting awareness of the Graduate Institute in the United States and helping the Institute recruit graduate students of high quality.

La Maison de la paix

La Maison de la paix, propriété de l'Institut, est l'une des réussites architecturales du XXI^e siècle en Suisse romande. S'appuyant sur une stratégie de partenariat public-privé réussie (voir p. 64), l'Institut a pu réaliser un immeuble qui fait honneur à Genève et à la Suisse.

Afin de répondre à sa stratégie de diversification financière et de développement de revenus propres tout en offrant des lieux utiles à la Genève internationale, l'Institut a décidé de créer deux espaces : le Centre de réunions et le Restaurant de la Maison de la paix.

LE CENTRE DE RÉUNIONS

Le Centre de réunions offre une grande salle de séminaires et quatre salles de réunions qui peuvent accueillir, avec un haut niveau de confort et de prestations, des groupes de différentes tailles pour des activités telles que des assemblées générales, des séminaires d'experts, des audiences d'arbitrage ou des négociations diplomatiques.

LE RESTAURANT

Avec sa grande terrasse, le Restaurant de la Maison de la paix offre une vue à 360 degrés sur la Genève internationale, le lac Léman, la Cité de Calvin, les Alpes et le Jura.

Maison de la paix

Maison de la paix, which belongs to the Graduate Institute, is one of Western Switzerland's architectural achievements of the 21st century. Founded on a successful public-private strategy (see p. 64), the Institute has delivered a building which does honour to Geneva and Switzerland.

As part of a strategy aimed at developing its own revenues while offering useful services to International Geneva, the Institute created two venues: the Meeting Centre and Le Restaurant de la Maison de la paix.

MEETING CENTRE

The Meeting Centre offers a large seminar room and four meeting rooms which provide a very high level of comfort and service to groups of different sizes for activities such as general meetings, expert seminars, arbitration hearings or diplomatic negotiations.

LE RESTAURANT

With its large terrace, Le Restaurant de la Maison de la paix offers a 360-degree view of International Geneva, Lake Geneva, the City of Calvin, the Alps and the Jura mountains.

Deux œuvres d'art de William Kentridge à la Maison de la paix

Sur la recommandation du jury pour les œuvres d'art présidé par Loa Haagen Pictet, l'Institut a acquis en 2016 deux dessins monumentaux de l'artiste sud-africain WILLIAM KENTRIDGE, Long, Long, Long Live the 4 Modernisations et Good Vegetables & Exemplary Deeds. Ces créations, que l'on peut admirer dans l'auditorium Ivan Pictet, viennent enrichir la collection d'œuvres d'art de l'Institut, financée par un budget spécial qui a bénéficié de l'apport de généreux mécènes.

Selon les termes de Loa Haagen Pictet, les dessins de Kentridge introduisent dans l'espace métallique de l'auditorium « un univers subtil à la fois organique et littéraire » qui nous invite « à découvrir une histoire de palimpseste qui superpose par couches successives le savoir d'une élite éduquée, la portée métaphorique de la poésie classique, une tradition artistique ancestrale et l'anéantissement démesuré de cet héritage culturel par l'excès idéologique du maoïsme ».

Né en 1955, William Kentridge vit et travaille en Afrique du Sud, où il a été un opposant actif à la politique d'apartheid. Il utilise principalement le dessin et le film, qu'il met au service de ses sujets de prédilection : l'histoire et ses turbulences, les systèmes de pouvoir et d'autorité, les tensions entre la mémoire et l'oubli.

Two Works of Art by William Kentridge at Maison de la paix

In 2016 the Institute acquired two monumental drawings from the South African artist WILLIAM KENTRIDGE, Long, Long, Long Live the 4 Modernisations and Good Vegetables & Exemplary Deeds, following the recommendation of the art jury chaired by Loa Haagen Pictet. The pictures, available to view in the Auditorium Ivan Pictet, enrich the Institute's collection of works of art, which is financed by a special budget that has benefited from the contribution of generous patrons.

According to Loa Haagen Pictet, Kentridge's drawings bring "a subtle organic and literary realm" to the auditorium's metal environment, which encourages us "to discover a history of palimpsest that superimposes in successive layers the knowledge of an educated elite, the metaphorical impact of classical poetry, an ancestral artistic tradition, and the excessive annihilation of cultural heritage by the ideological excesses of Maoism".

Born in 1955, William Kentridge lives and works in South Africa, where he was an active opponent of apartheid. He mainly uses drawing and film to serve his favorite subjects: the turbulence of history, systems of power and authority, and the tensions between memory and forgetfulness.

“ I am interested in a political art, that is to say, an art of ambiguity, contradiction, uncompleted gestures and uncertain endings – an art that keeps optimism in check and nihilism at bay. ”

Maison des étudiants Edgar et Danièle de Picciotto.

La nouvelle résidence pour étudiants

L'Institut est engagé dans la réalisation, sur les hauteurs du Petit-Saconnex, d'une résidence étudiante qui lui permettra d'ajouter environ 700 lits aux 250 lits de la Maison des étudiants Edgar et Danièle de Picciotto. Ce faisant, il participe à la création d'une cité internationale qui comprendra également le siège de Médecins sans frontières et des logements pour fonctionnaires internationaux.

Le projet a été rendu possible par le soutien extrêmement généreux d'une fondation privée qui juge important de développer les logements étudiants à Genève et qu'attirait, en outre, l'idée de faire d'une pierre plusieurs coups : offrir une issue à une longue négociation entre l'État de Genève et le Bureau international du travail (BIT) ; donner au BIT les moyens de rénover son bâtiment ; et permettre à l'État de Genève d'utiliser son terrain pour des réalisations utiles à la Genève internationale.

La réalisation de ce projet s'inscrit dans la stratégie de l'Institut de constituer une fortune immobilière dont les revenus viennent compléter la subvention publique et lui donnent les moyens de poursuivre son essor. Avant tout, elle lui permet d'offrir un lit à tous ses étudiants et d'attirer ainsi des jeunes gens doués du monde entier.

New Student Residence

The Institute has set about constructing a student residence on the heights of Petit-Saconnex, which will add approximately 700 beds to the existing 250 beds at the Edgar and Danièle de Picciotto Student House. In doing so, the Institute will be part of creating an international district that will also include the headquarters of Médecins Sans Frontières and housing for international civil servants.

The project was made possible thanks to the extremely generous support of a private foundation keen to develop student housing in Geneva, and attracted by the idea of achieving several objectives simultaneously: resolving the lengthy negotiations between the State of Geneva and the International Labour Office (ILO); providing the ILO with the means to renovate its building; and enabling the State of Geneva to use its land to serve International Geneva.

The project's realisation is in line with the Institute's strategy of building a real estate portfolio whose revenues will supplement public subsidies, allowing the Institute to continue to grow. Above all, it enables us to offer beds to all our students and thus attract talented young people from all over the world.

La Maison de la paix, un lieu de rencontre, de réflexion et d'action Maison de la paix, a Place to Meet, to Think and to Act

L'Institut et la Genève internationale ont partie liée depuis l'établissement de la Société des Nations au sortir de la Première Guerre mondiale. La Maison de la paix, située au cœur de la Genève internationale, permet à l'Institut de poursuivre et d'approfondir cette collaboration notamment avec les trois centres soutenus par la Confédération (GCSP, GICHD et DCAF) et les onze organisations qui y ont leur siège. Ensemble, ces organisations font de la Maison de la paix un haut lieu de rencontre, de réflexion et d'expertise internationale qui contribue au renforcement du rôle de Genève et de la Suisse en matière de paix et de coopération internationale.

The Graduate Institute and International Geneva have shared close ties since the establishment of the League of Nations in the wake of the First World War. Situated in the heart of International Geneva, Maison de la paix enables the Institute to strengthen and develop these ties, notably with the three centres supported by the Swiss Confederation (GCSP, GICHD and DCAF) and the eleven other organisations housed there. Together, these organisations make Maison de la paix a privileged hub for meetings, analysis and international exchange, reinforcing Geneva and Switzerland's leading roles in the field of peace and international cooperation.

À Genève et en Suisse

In Geneva and in Switzerland

L'Institut bénéficie depuis des décennies du soutien de l'État de Genève et de la Confédération suisse. Il doit ce soutien à sa contribution :

- à la production scientifique dans son domaine de spécialisation
- au rayonnement international de Genève
- aux relations extérieures de la Suisse

Ce soutien de longue durée s'explique par la coïncidence des identités et des intérêts. Les activités de l'Institut s'accordent parfaitement avec l'« esprit de Genève », nourri de la mémoire de l'exil huguenot, du rôle de capitale humanitaire après la création du Comité international de la Croix-Rouge et de la tradition d'accueil d'organisations internationales depuis l'établissement de la Société des Nations.

Avec la politique extérieure de la Suisse, l'Institut partage des orientations fondamentales : la primauté du droit, notamment du droit humanitaire et des droits de l'homme ; l'importance de la coopération internationale et de l'aide au développement ; et, de manière générale, la nécessité d'un monde ouvert et libre. En valorisant le respect de la diversité et la recherche de solutions pragmatiques, l'Institut s'inscrit, en outre, dans une culture politique qui est caractéristique de la Suisse et représente l'un des meilleurs apports de ce pays à la pratique des relations internationales.

Au-delà de son expertise sur les thématiques-clés de la Genève internationale, l'Institut contribue directement aux relations extérieures de la Suisse par l'action de ses anciens étudiants dans l'administration fédérale (Département fédéral des affaires étrangères, Secrétariat d'État à l'économie, Banque nationale suisse, etc.) et la réalisation d'un nombre substantiel de contrats de recherche appliquée.

Par la qualité de ses ressources et de son réseau, l'Institut est bien équipé pour servir d'interlocuteur académique de la Genève internationale et soutenir la position de la Suisse :

- en formant de futurs acteurs internationaux qui seront à travers le monde des ambassadeurs de bonne volonté pour Genève et la Suisse
- en fournissant à la communauté internationale une expertise utile à la formulation et à la mise en œuvre de politiques publiques internationales
- en offrant un perfectionnement professionnel à un large éventail de personnes actives dans l'arène internationale
- en jouant le rôle de plateforme de dialogue et de concertation entre acteurs internationaux de tout type

For several decades, the Institute has benefited from the support of the State of Geneva and the Swiss Confederation. It receives this support thanks to its contributions to:

- the production of international scientific knowledge in its domain of specialisation
- International Geneva's reputation worldwide
- Switzerland's foreign relations

This long-term support is a testament to shared identities and interests. The Institute's activities align perfectly with the "spirit of Geneva", nourished by the memory of the exile of French Huguenots, by Geneva becoming a humanitarian capital with the creation of the International Committee of the Red Cross, and by its tradition of hosting numerous international organisations since the birth of the League of Nations.

The Institute shares the fundamental objectives of Switzerland's foreign policy: the rule of law, notably humanitarian and human rights law; the importance of international cooperation and development assistance; and, in general, the need for an open and free world. By incorporating respect for diversity and the search for pragmatic solutions, the Institute shares the values of Swiss political culture and represents one of the country's best contributions to the practice of international relations.

Beyond its expertise in International Geneva's key areas of specialisation, the Institute contributes directly to Switzerland's foreign policy through the endeavours of its alumni who work in the Swiss federal administration (Federal Department of Foreign Affairs, State Secretariat for Economic Affairs, Swiss National Bank, etc.) and by carrying out a substantial amount of commissioned applied research.

Through the quality of its resources and network, the Institute is well equipped to carry out its role as International Geneva's academic partner and to contribute to Switzerland's influence by:

- training future international actors who will be ambassadors for Geneva and Switzerland worldwide
- providing useful expertise on the formulation and implementation of public policies to the international community
- offering professional training to a wide range of people active in the international arena
- serving as a platform for dialogue and consultation between international actors of all kinds

Renforcement du partenariat avec l'Université de Genève

La collaboration entre l'Université de Genève et l'Institut s'est fortement développée au cours des dix dernières années. Elle a pris notamment la forme de trois centres conjoints (Académie de droit international humanitaire et de droits humains, Centre d'enseignement et de recherche en action humanitaire et Centre pour le règlement des différends internationaux) auxquels s'attellent des compétences de part et d'autre pour produire un impact qui ne serait pas obtenu isolément. Elle se marque également dans l'accueil réciproque d'étudiants et la participation croisée de professeurs aux programmes d'enseignement de l'autre institution.

Ce partenariat a été renforcé en 2016 par la révision de la convention, signée par Philippe Burrin, directeur de l'Institut, et Yves Flückiger, recteur de l'Université de Genève, qui lie les deux institutions et dont l'une des conséquences notables est l'immatriculation par l'Institut de ses étudiants à partir de l'automne 2016. C'est le point d'aboutissement de la politique impulsée par les autorités de Berne et de Genève en vue de la création d'un nouvel Institut à l'autonomie pleinement reconnue et dont les étapes principales ont été l'accréditation fédérale en 2009 et la reconnaissance par le Parlement genevois en 2012 d'un statut de haute école.

Ce partenariat a de l'avenir, car il est fondé sur des intérêts communs, au premier rang desquels il faut mettre la défense de la mission universitaire et la promotion de la place genevoise. Au niveau national, les deux institutions auront à cœur de renforcer les intérêts de Genève au sein des organismes de pilotage des hautes écoles. À l'extérieur de la Suisse, elles mettront en avant l'éventail des formations qu'elles offrent dans le domaine des études internationales. En s'appuyant sur leur différence et leur complémentarité, elles feront rayonner la place universitaire genevoise et sa contribution à la connaissance des grands défis du monde contemporain.

GENEVA ACADEMY OF INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS

ROBERT ROTH

Director, Professor of Law at the University of Geneva

The Geneva Academy of International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights provides postgraduate education, conducts academic legal research and policy studies, and organises training courses and expert meetings. It concentrates on branches of international law that relate to situations of armed conflict, protracted violence, and protection of human rights.

- In 2016, the Geneva Academy launched a new Master of Advanced Studies in Transitional Justice, Human Rights and the Rule of Law. The first class counts 27 students from a variety of backgrounds and countries, many of which with a recent history of political oppression or armed conflict. Organised around a vibrant, intimate and multicultural community of talented students, leading professors and key experts, this programme is already a reference for those wanting to gain a solid theoretical and practical legal background in the field of transitional justice

GENEVA CENTRE FOR EDUCATION AND RESEARCH IN HUMANITARIAN ACTION

DORIS SCHOPPER

Director, Professor at the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Geneva

The Centre is the humanitarian platform of Geneva's academic environment, offering a variety of training courses and diplomas to humanitarian professionals and conducting multi-disciplinary research on topics of humanitarian action.

2016 highlights include:

- the participation of more than 240 students in the Centre's courses, a significant increase of enrollments in its distance-learning programme "Designing Strategies and Programmes for Humanitarian Action" and the first decentralised course on sexual violence in Uganda, a success with 30 participants
- the signature of a memorandum of understanding with the International Committee

- The Geneva Academy also pursued scientific research that addresses central dilemmas and challenges to the implementation of international humanitarian law and human rights, notably on armed non-state actors, the protection of persons with disabilities during armed conflict, and universality in the Human Rights Council. Two flagship projects – the online database Rule of Law in Armed Conflicts (RULAC) and the War Report – have been revamped and will be presented to various audiences in early 2017

- Finally, the Geneva Academy organised more than 50 events of a various nature (public lectures, forums, private expert meetings), often in partnership with Geneva-based missions or institutions (ICRC, GCSF, OHCHR, NGOs), on contemporary hot issues in international humanitarian law and international human rights law. A new series of "IHL Talks" was also launched

of the Red Cross (ICRC) which acknowledges the Centre's role as a leading centre for humanitarian education, strengthening training opportunities for ICRC staff

- the acceptance of the Centre as a collaborating member of the tropEd Network for Education in International Health
- a strong presence at the World Conference of Humanitarian Studies, leading a round table discussion and delivering four papers, as well as at the World Humanitarian Summit
- the development of the Humanitarian Encyclopedia, the Centre's flagship research project, including constitution of two governance bodies, design of an interdisciplinary research methodology and selection of key terms used in the humanitarian field. The ultimate goal is to create a living repository of knowledge in humanitarian action

Les nouveaux partenariats académiques New Academic Partnerships

L'Institut a signé quatre nouveaux accords de coopération académique en 2016.
The Institute signed four new academic cooperation agreements in 2016.

Two Exchange Programmes: Boğaziçi University and the University of Melbourne

Exchange programmes allow students to gain a valuable international study experience, foster global responsibility and advance their understanding of cultural diversity. In 2016, the Graduate Institute signed a memorandum of understanding and student exchange agreement with Boğaziçi University and the University of Melbourne. These institutions give graduate students the opportunity to study innovative programmes that offer a theoretical grounding as well as developing creative thinking, providing practical experience and promoting critical analysis of developing world issues.

Joint Programme with the University of Hong Kong

In 2016, a new cooperative agreement was signed with the University of Hong Kong (HKU), reinforcing the existing partnership which had started in 2014. It takes the form of a concurrent degree programme, which will allow students to complete a Bachelor of Social Sciences from HKU and a master from the Graduate Institute in five years instead of six.

Up to three students, majoring in any of the social sciences from HKU, will be selected every year. After completing three years of their degree at HKU, they will be enrolled at the Graduate Institute to undertake a two-year master programme. The Institute will welcome the first HKU students at the start of the 2017–2018 academic year.

Cooperative Agreement with the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs at Yale University

In 2016, a new cooperative agreement was signed with the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs at Yale University, strengthening the ten-year-long partnership of student exchanges between Yale University and the Graduate Institute, in which about 30 students have participated.

This new agreement allows graduating Yale students to complete a master's degree at the Graduate Institute in one year instead of two, after having completed a bachelor's degree in Global Affairs at the Jackson Institute. Students selected for this programme will join the Institute after having completed their four-year bachelor programme at Yale. They will spend a fifth year of studies at the Graduate Institute in order to complete their master's degree.

Programme de collaboration avec l'Institut für die Wissenschaften vom Menschen (IWM) de Vienne

L'Institut für die Wissenschaften vom Menschen, fondé en 1982, est membre du Réseau des instituts européens d'études avancées qui sont basés sur le modèle de l'Institute for Advanced Study de Princeton. Il accueille chaque année une cinquantaine de chercheurs en sciences humaines et sociales et a pour vocation de favoriser l'échange intellectuel entre l'Orient et l'Occident, entre la science et la société, et entre les diverses disciplines et écoles de pensée, ainsi que de contribuer au débat sur les principaux défis auxquels font face les décideurs et un public varié.

Forts de leur profil similaire et de leur complémentarité thématique, et avec le soutien du Secrétariat d'État à la formation, à la recherche et à l'innovation (SEFRI), l'IWM et l'Institut ont mis en place en 2016 un programme de collaboration qui comporte l'accueil par l'IWM de doctorants et de jeunes docteurs de l'Institut ainsi que l'organisation de colloques et de conférences publiques en alternance à Genève et à Vienne.

Le colloque 2016, « Has Europe Reached Its Limits? », s'est tenu les 8 et 9 décembre à l'Institut, quelques mois après le Brexit. Une dizaine de chercheurs y ont participé, dont Jan-Werner Müller, professeur de politique à l'Université de Princeton et auteur du récent livre What Is Populism?, qui a prononcé la conférence d'ouverture.

“One of the main reasons why I wanted to live in Rio was to get a better understanding of its favelas. After having been able to attend a conference on the urbanisation of favelas, visit favelas and talk to their residents, I am now starting to work with a very committed and dynamic local NGO that supports community voices. Through this and through the fieldwork for my thesis, I hope to better understand these fascinating communities, which have been able to find solutions to a wide range of challenges by themselves and despite numerous obstacles.”

2016 Global South Workshop with Peking University

The Graduate Institute and Peking University's School of International Studies co-organised a weeklong Global South Workshop in Beijing in May.

The workshop allowed doctoral students from universities in southern developing countries to discuss their thesis with professors and PhD students from the Graduate Institute and Peking University. Students from China, India, Brazil, South Africa, Tanzania, Malawi and Zimbabwe participated, along with Graduate Institute and Chinese researchers.

Over 100 students from around the Global South applied to take part in the workshop, 14 eventually being selected by the Graduate Institute. Peking University selected 11 additional PhD students from China. Matthew Stephenson, one of two Graduate Institute students to participate, said "it was highly enriching to hear the perspectives of scholars from China, from Zimbabwe, from Brazil and so on, as they had different takes on structural transformation, power dynamics, social injustice, etc."

Carolyn Chisadza, a student at the University of Pretoria in South Africa, said the workshop "defines what research is all about – the transfer of knowledge across different disciplines from people all over the globe". Professor Gilles Carbonnier said that "thanks to the high-level investment of our partner, the workshop was a real success. By organising this event, the Graduate Institute contributed to promoting South-South academic cooperation at its best!"

The Graduate Institute places high emphasis on contributing to the academic development of young researchers from the Global South, through active collaborations with partner universities and financial support for master and PhD students from developing countries.

Les professeurs Professors

De gauche à droite : Sungmin Rho, Susanna Hecht, Graziella Moraes Silva, Julia Cajal Grossi.

L'Institut a un corps professoral qu'il veut aussi divers que possible par l'âge, le genre, la nationalité, le parcours universitaire et les perspectives scientifiques (voir pp. 68-72).

Afin d'assurer un meilleur équilibre des genres, l'Institut a poursuivi en 2016 sa politique en deux volets :

- d'une part, la mise au concours d'un nombre accru de postes au rang de professeur assistant afin de donner à des femmes des chances sérieuses de l'emporter dans une compétition ouverte
- d'autre part, l'utilisation de la procédure par appel pour inviter des femmes possédant un dossier et une expérience de haut niveau à rejoindre l'Institut au rang de professeur ordinaire

Comme l'année précédente, cette politique a porté ses fruits puisque l'Institut a accueilli huit nouveaux professeurs, dont six femmes.

The Institute aims to recruit faculty that are as diverse as possible in age, gender, nationality, academic background and scientific approach (see pp. 68–72).

To ensure a greater gender diversity, the Institute has continued its dual policy in 2016:

- increasing open competitions at the rank of assistant professor to offer serious chances to women
- inviting senior women with high-level experience and profile to join the Institute at the rank of full professor

As in the previous year, this policy proved fruitful as eight new professors, six of them women, joined the Institute.

Les nouveaux professeurs

New professors

SUSANNA HECHT (USA)

Professor of International History
PhD, University of California

A trained biologist, economist and soil scientist and long-time expert on Amazonia, Professor Hecht explores the history, dynamics and socio-environmental effects of cultures, economies and land use. Her more recent research looks at globalisation, both as a driver of deforestation but also as a means of its control.

PATRICIA SPYER (the Netherlands, USA)

Professor of Anthropology and Sociology of Development
PhD, University of Chicago

A cultural anthropologist, Patricia Spyer joined the Graduate Institute from Leiden University, where from 2001 to 2015 she held the Chair of Cultural Anthropology of Contemporary Indonesia. Between 1993 and 2000 she taught at the University of Amsterdam's Religion and Society Research Centre, where she was a founding member. She has published, among other topics, on violence, media and visual culture, materiality, and religion.

CAROLYN BILTOFT (USA)

Assistant Professor of International History
PhD, Princeton University

Before joining the Institute, Carolyn Bilotft was Assistant Professor at Georgia State University. Her works focus on the dynamics of world capitalism since 1850, from the angle of intellectual and cultural history. She is particularly interested in how individuals and institutions react to the mass phenomena known as globalisation.

JULIA CAJAL GROSSI (Argentina and Italy)

Assistant Professor of International Economics
PhD, University of Warwick

Before coming to the Institute, Julia Cajal Grossi was the laureate of the Robert Solow Postdoctoral Fellowship in the Cournot Centre and benefited from a fellowship from the Centre for Competitive Advantage in the Global Economy (CAGE) at Warwick University. An empirical microeconomist, her research domains are development, industrial organisation and trade.

GRAZIELLA MORAES SILVA (Brazil)

Assistant Professor of Anthropology and Sociology of Development
PhD, Harvard University

Between 2011 and 2016, Graziella Moraes Silva worked at the Department of Sociology at the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (UFRJ) in Brazil. Her research, at the intersection of inequalities and cultural sociology, currently focuses on comparative racial relations and the perceptions of elites towards poverty and inequalities.

SUNGMIN RHO (South Korea)

Assistant Professor of International Relations/Political Science
PhD, Stanford University

Before coming to the Institute, Sungmin Rho was the laureate of the Postdoctoral Fellowship from the Center for the Study of Contemporary China at Pennsylvania University. Her research, which brings together international economics and comparative political economics, focuses mainly on China. She is interested in the interactions between economic change and social conflicts.

FUAD ZARBIYEV (Azerbaijan)

Assistant Professor of International Law
PhD, Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies
LLM, Harvard Law School

Before joining the Institute, Fuad Zarbiyev was Global Research Fellow at the School of Law, New York University, and worked as an associate and then advisory lawyer for Curtis, Mallet-Prevost, Colt & Mosle LLP, and as a lawyer and adviser to governments and public firms before international tribunals. His domains of expertise include governance and transnational law, international law theory, judiciary behaviour in international judiciary order, and investment arbitration, as well as theory and practice of treaties interpretation.

ROBERT B. KOOPMAN (USA)

Adjunct Professor of International Economics
PhD, Boston College

Robert B. Koopman serves as the Chief Economist and Director of the Economic Research and Statistics Division at the World Trade Organization. Prior to this post he served as the Director of Operations and Chief Operating Officer for the United States International Trade Commission. Professor Koopman previously taught on trade in the Economics Department at Georgetown University, in Washington DC. His research interests include measuring the economic effects of trade and trade policy changes, measuring global value chains, and the application and validation of large scale economic simulation models.

Les étudiants Students

Sélectionnés de manière rigoureuse, les étudiants de l'Institut sont doués intellectuellement, ouverts culturellement et animés par l'ambition de relever les défis du monde contemporain. Au début de l'année académique 2016-2017, 897 étudiants étaient inscrits à un programme de master ou de doctorat.

Les étudiants sont attirés à l'Institut par :

- la qualité de sa formation et sa réputation
- les possibilités d'expérience professionnelle (stages, emplois à temps partiel)
- la Genève internationale
- l'environnement bilingue

Chosen through a rigorous selection process, the Institute's students are intellectually bright, culturally open, and driven by their ambition to face the global challenges of our time. At the beginning of the 2016–2017 academic year, 897 students were enrolled in a Master or PhD programme.

Students choose the Institute for:

- the quality of its education and its reputation
- the opportunities for professional experience (internships, part-time work)
- International Geneva
- the bilingual environment

Why I Decided to Study at the Institute

Being a citizen of the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), I am a witness of a conflict that has been affecting my country for decades. While men engage in war, women are left without any support for looking after their family and too often suffer from rape being used as a weapon of war. News headlines are frequently about summary execution of civilians, widespread rape and sexual violence, banditry and forced labour.

I was born in Kolwezi, a city located in the south-eastern part of the DRC. As a child, I have memories of constant travelling with my family because my father was serving in the army.

At the age of nine, I began to feel more intensely the effects of what my country was going through, in particular during the emergence of the rebellion led by the Alliance of Democratic Forces for the Liberation of Congo-Zaire (AFDL). We lived in constant fear of the war reaching our home.

Although my country can be considered one of the wealthiest with the most valuable and diverse resources in the world, decades of wars, misrule and mismanagement have made it one of the poorest. Poor economic conditions and unemployment of young people have always motivated me to act for change. I grew up with the desire to work hard and contribute to the development of my country.

This situation has always motivated my choices of study. After completing my high school in the DRC, I went to Kenya where I studied Armed Conflict and Peace Studies in combination with Political Science and Public Administration. As a student, I worked within an organisation that supported refugees who fled from various parts of Africa, including my country. These interactions led me to get first-hand experience and understanding about the challenges faced by people affected by conflicts. I was therefore more motivated to come back to the DRC to work and contribute to the improvement of the situation that led my compatriots to flee their homes and find themselves in a situation of vulnerability.

Immediately after the completion of my studies, I volunteered in Bukavu in South Kivu province, situated in the eastern part of the DRC, which is also the most affected by continuing violence from armed groups, political instability, extreme poverty and high levels of sexual violence against women and children.

Through personal, academic and professional experience, I already have a solid insight into the field of conflict, peace and development, which I intend to develop further. Therefore, the Master in International Affairs perfectly suits my profile and career prospects, since my ultimate goal is to utilise the knowledge and skills I will acquire to improve the situation of my country and continent.

TANYA BADIDI BAKWANZA

■ Tanya Badidi Bakwanza from Lubumbashi (Democratic Republic of the Congo) was admitted to the Master in International Affairs (2016–2018) and benefits from a full scholarship from the Institute.

Trois étudiantes de l'Institut reçoivent des fonds des Davis Projects for Peace

DORIS NIRAGIRE NIRERE (master en affaires internationales), MONIKA NYFFELER (master en études du développement) et MILENA PELLEGRINI (master en études du développement) ont reçu des fonds des Davis Projects for Peace pour inviter neuf danseurs, issus de favelas de Rio de Janeiro, à venir donner en Suisse une série de spectacles présentant le passinho.

Le passinho est une danse urbaine brésilienne qui a surgi dans les années 2000 dans les favelas de Rio. À travers cette danse, les jeunes habitants de ces zones urbaines, touchées par la pauvreté et la violence de la guerre entre les forces armées de l'État et les trafiquants de drogue, ont trouvé une manière artistique et non violente d'extérioriser leur vécu.

« Partant du principe que la danse constitue un langage universel, au-delà des barrières linguistiques, raciales, nationales, religieuses et de genre, et que la paix ne se construit pas seulement par une aide attribuée dans les pays du Sud mais aussi par un travail de sensibilisation au Nord, le projet soutenu par les Davis Projects for Peace a permis à la compagnie #Passinho de présenter et de transmettre son art en Suisse de différentes manières », expliquent les trois étudiantes, récemment diplômées de l'Institut. Monika Nyffeler a d'ailleurs consacré son mémoire de master à la thématique « relations entre corps, espace et discours dans le passinho ».

À la fin du mois d'août, #Passinho a alterné les représentations à Zurich, Genève et Lausanne et des ateliers avec des danseurs suisses à Berne et Lausanne. La compagnie a aussi rencontré un groupe de jeunes adolescents en réinsertion professionnelle à Yverdon-les-Bains en se substituant au professeur d'éducation physique le temps d'un cours. Après avoir conquis Rio et le Brésil, le passinho a été très chaleureusement reçu par le public suisse. Autant d'encouragements pour les danseurs à continuer de parfaire et de transmettre leur art au Brésil et ailleurs.

Les Davis Projects for Peace allouent chaque année, depuis 2007, des fonds à des étudiants de plus d'une centaine d'universités dans le monde pour mener à bien des projets en faveur de la paix. À l'occasion de son 100^e anniversaire, M^{me} Kathryn Davis, une ancienne étudiante et une généreuse mécène de l'Institut, dont la bibliothèque porte le nom ainsi que celui de son époux, a décidé d'allouer 1 million de dollars à des projets pour la paix.

Des étudiants de l'Institut décrochent la deuxième place au Concours Rousseau

Après plusieurs années d'absence, cinq étudiants de l'Institut ont décroché la deuxième place du Concours Charles-Rousseau, une compétition francophone de procès simulé en droit international particulièrement renommée. Le concours s'est déroulé à Cuba du 6 au 14 mai, regroupant 26 équipes universitaires de 12 pays.

Les équipes se sont affrontées autour d'un différend fictif opposant Cuba aux États-Unis devant la Cour internationale de Justice. Elles devaient présenter des mémoires écrits puis plaider devant des spécialistes du droit international.

L'équipe de l'Institut, constituée de Kerry Amhof, Francesca Dal Poggetto, Yasmine El-Haj et Chloé Groenendijk, étudiantes de master en droit international, ainsi que de Najib Messih, instructeur et doctorant en droit international, a atteint la finale de la compétition, recevant ainsi le Prix Katia-Boustany de l'équipe finaliste. Elle s'est également hissée à la deuxième place de la phase écrite du concours en remportant le Prix de l'équipe ayant rédigé le deuxième meilleur mémoire.

Pour Chloé Groenendijk, « d'un point de vue personnel mais aussi académique, cette expérience a été très enrichissante. C'est un travail d'équipe qui a duré de novembre 2015 à mai 2016 et qui s'est très bien passé pour nous tous. »

Les initiatives d'étudiants Student Initiatives

Les étudiants de l'Institut créent chaque année des initiatives qui leur permettent d'enrichir leur expérience. Certaines initiatives sont soutenues par l'Institut car elles sont en phase avec sa mission et ses objectifs.

Each year, our students launch and participate in a wide range of initiatives, adding a lot to their student experience. Certain initiatives whose mission and objectives align with those of the Institute receive institutional support.

MIGRATION INITIATIVE

The Migration Initiative was founded in February 2016 by a group of students concerned about the state of migration situation at hand. The initiative aims to catalyse engagement in places such as Lesvos, Idomeni and Calais, where several students have spent time as volunteers, and concrete action in Geneva along several fronts. Deeply touched by the magnitude of the migratory crisis and the fate of tens of thousands of people in war zones who are seeking refuge in places such as Switzerland, the Graduate Institute has decided to collaborate with the Institute's student Migration Initiative and to open its French courses to refugees and asylum seekers. In August, 18 participants, primarily from Syria, followed the intensive French courses given at the Institute over a period of three weeks. Because of this initiative's usefulness, the Institute has decided to pursue the project further and to open its French courses throughout the academic year. Twelve refugees and asylum seekers follow the Institute's classes.

JUNIOR DIPLOMAT INITIATIVE

The Junior Diplomat Initiative aims to bring aspiring junior diplomats close to the reality of their potential future in the world of diplomacy through interactive events and discussions with interesting guests. The vision of the Junior Diplomat Initiative is to develop students' skills and knowledge through interaction between students, diplomats and international relations experts.

On 14 April, over 80 students participated in the "JDI Youth Dialogue 2016: Future of Diplomacy", a series of panel discussions, workshops and conferences.

A range of professors, ambassadors and professionals were invited to Maison de la paix to discuss the current and potential challenges facing the field. The first panel discussion, "Addressing Global Challenges: A Junior Diplomat's Perspective", was moderated by Professor Mohammad-Mahmoud Ould Mohamedou. The second, moderated by Professor Thomas Biersteker, explored the "Emerging Trends in Globalised Diplomacy" with Ambassador Roderick van Schreven, Ambassador Päivi Kairamo and Victor do Prado, Director of the World Trade Organization's Council and Trade Negotiations Committee Division.

GENEVA CONSULTING NETWORK

The Geneva Consulting Network gives Graduate Institute students experience in strategy consulting by partnering with professional consultants to provide advice for NGOs working on social and environmental challenges. In 2016, the initiative, founded by Gerard Coenen and Mattis Hennings, both Master students in Development Studies, completed its first project, developing an analysis of non-financial private sector engagement for UNICEF. Alongside Gerard and Mattis, Sohini Chowdhury, Master student in International Affairs, and Mallory Xinyu Zhan, Master student in Development Studies, spent three months during the spring semester working with Karin Hagann, Managing Director of Sustainable Outreach, and team members from UNICEF to deliver the project.

JUST INNOVATE

Just Innovate is a non-profit educational initiative whose mission is to inspire and facilitate the creation of social innovations within student communities and beyond. On 26 November at the Musée d'ethnographie de Genève, 11 teams of Graduate Institute and University of Geneva students presented their projects at Just Innovate's competition event, Demo Day, which is part of the Collaborate for Social Impact (C4SI) programme. Students showcased innovative solutions to common challenges facing international organisations. Their proposals were judged by a jury of experts as well as by an audience of 250 entrepreneurs, professionals and students. The "Elisa Asile Challenge" team, consisting of Graduate Institute students Lisa Godd, Lydia Greve and Ebnoluwa Aribido, as well as University of Geneva student Anna Walker, won the audience prize and the judges' prize. Their project explored how refugees can be better socially and economically integrated into Geneva society, working with Elisa Asile, an organisation providing free legal assistance to asylum seekers in Switzerland.

AMICALE DES ÉTUDIANTS FRANCOPHONES DE L'INSTITUT

L'Amicale des étudiants francophones vise à promouvoir la diversité linguistique et culturelle au sein et au-delà de l'Institut à travers des conférences publiques, des cafés/apéros francophones et des projections de films.

Cette année, l'Amicale des étudiants francophones a organisé pour la première fois à l'Institut un concours d'éloquence en collaboration avec l'Association des étudiants en science politique et relations internationales de l'Université de Genève et l'Association étudiante de l'Académie de droit international humanitaire et de droits humains à Genève.

LAWWITHOUTWALLS

LawWithoutWalls gives law students entrepreneurial experience and project management skills. Students from approximately 30 law and business schools took part in the 2016 global collaboration. Two Graduate Institute students, Lisa Weihser and Andrea Tang, participated in the programme, under the guidance of Professor Joost Pauwelyn and second-year master student in international Law Vincent Beyer.

Lisa Weihser worked with students from Beijing School of Law in Shenzhen and Bucerius Law School in Hamburg to reimagine the law school applications and admission process. They developed Bond, an online platform which allows prospective students to connect with alumni, receive feedback on motivation letters, CVs, and other application documents, and get advice and support on exam preparation. Users can interact through a messaging tool and exchange useful information about the application process.

Andrea Tang, together with students from Harvard Law School and Bucerius Law School, worked on how to use IT to improve important trial processes. The team developed an online neighbourhood dispute resolution platform, Robin's Hood. Focusing on New York City, the platform empowers residents to resolve disputes based on strategic de-escalation, reducing the burden on courts, police, and local governments. Users access a toolbox of options which facilitate information- and burden-sharing, leading to crowd-sourced dispute resolution and helping them connect, share information and get to know others in their neighbourhood. Robin's Hood was voted as one of the top five competition finalists.

LA RECHERCHE
RESEARCH

À la pointe de la recherche et de l'expertise

At the Cutting Edge of Research and Expertise

En tant qu'établissement de recherche, l'Institut a pour mission de produire et de diffuser des connaissances sur les enjeux globaux et internationaux du monde contemporain et de contribuer au progrès de la communauté scientifique mondiale, tout en offrant aux acteurs internationaux une expertise pertinente et utile à leur action. L'Institut est à même d'offrir une expertise dense grâce à :

- un corps enseignant de haut niveau en même temps que divers par l'origine nationale, le parcours universitaire et les perspectives scientifiques
- la production de ses centres de recherche, qui porte sur les principaux défis du monde contemporain
- la créativité de ses étudiants, en particulier les doctorants, qui forment près de la moitié du corps estudiantin

As a research institution, the Institute produces and disseminates insight into contemporary global and international issues, contributing to the progress of the world's scientific community while offering policy-relevant expertise to international actors. The Institute is able to provide a wide range of expertise thanks to:

- a teaching faculty which is diverse in geographic origin, academic background and scientific perspective
- the output of its research centres, which focus on the main challenges of today's world
- the creativity of its students, in particular PhD candidates who form nearly half of the student body

Grégoire Mallard Awarded a Major ERC Research Grant

Grégoire Mallard, Associate Professor of Anthropology and Sociology of Development, has received a EUR 1.5 million grant from the European Research Council (ERC) for his research project "Bombs, Banks and Sanctions: A Sociology of the Transnational Legal Field of Nuclear Non-proliferation".

Professor Mallard is the first Graduate Institute professor to receive an ERC grant. It will enable him to carry out a five-year project, starting in 2017, on how the implementation of sanctions against nuclear proliferators has led to the creation of a global system of surveillance of the financial dealings of all states, banks and individuals.

ERC grants are awarded with the aim of encouraging high quality research and favour cross-disciplinary, pioneering approaches to new and emerging fields.

Les centres de recherche

Research Centres

À côté des travaux individuels, la recherche à l'Institut est menée dans des centres interdisciplinaires qui forment un milieu intellectuel stimulant, favorisent l'échange entre professeurs et doctorants et renforcent des réseaux d'expertise spécialisés dans les thématiques où Genève et la Suisse ont un avantage comparé. Les centres offrent une interface unique entre le monde académique et la communauté internationale grâce à leur palette d'activités qui vont de la recherche et de l'expertise à l'organisation de débats en passant par l'accueil de chercheurs du monde entier et la contribution à la formation continue de l'Institut.

Alongside individual projects, research at the Institute is carried out by interdisciplinary centres that provide an intellectually stimulating environment, encourage cooperation between professors and PhD candidates, and strengthen networks of expertise in areas in which Geneva and Switzerland have a comparative advantage. The Institute's research centres form a unique interface between academia and the international community through their activities: advanced research, hosting experts from around the world, organising public events and training courses.

JEAN-LOUIS ARCAND

Director, Professor of International Economics

UGO PANIZZA

Director, Professor of International Economics and Pictet Chair in Finance and Development

The mission of the Centre for Finance and Development is to contribute to global thinking on the links between finance and development. The Centre serves as an international and interdisciplinary exchange platform aimed at strengthening dialogue and cooperation among international organisations, academics, and the private sector. It provides support to Graduate Institute researchers and students who work on Finance and Development-related topics and coordinates activities aimed at bolstering Geneva's role as a major financial centre.

→ 2016 was a year of transition for the Centre as Jean-Louis Arcand, who is the founding director, passed the baton to Ugo Panizza in September 2016. The Centre also welcomed three new members: Gilles Carbonnier, Professor of International Economics; Grégoire Mallard, Associate Professor of Anthropology and Sociology of Development; and Sungmin Rho, Assistant Professor in International Relations/ Political Science

→ The Centre provided academic support to students conducting Applied Research Seminars in Geneva-based international organisations and developed a research-based internship with Symbiotics on "The Role of Small Businesses in Creating Jobs, Generating Revenues, and Contributing to Economic Growth" and "The Risk and Returns of Lending in Local Currency to Microfinance Institutions That Operate in Developing and Frontier Markets"

→ 2016 highlights included four major conferences: (1) the 31st Annual Congress of the European Economic Association and 69th European Meeting of the Econometric Society, a five-day congress jointly organised with the School of Economics and Management of the University of Geneva; (2) a conference on "Measuring and Monitoring Implementation of the SDGs: Fit for Purpose?", jointly organised with the e-journal International Development Policy and the Millennium Institute; (3) the 2016 Geneva Challenge, a contest for graduate students, on "The Challenges of Urbanisation", jointly organised with the Kofi Annan Foundation (see p. 66); and (4) the Third Chinese-Swiss Financial Round Table, jointly organised with the Swiss Bankers Association, the Geneva Financial Center, and the China Banking Association. The Centre also organised eight seminars and public lectures and launched a new conference series, jointly organised by the World Bank Office in Geneva, on "The Future of Development Finance"

<http://graduateinstitute.ch/cies>

TIMOTHY SWANSON

Co-Director, Professor of International Economics and André Hoffmann Chair in Environmental Economics

LILIANA ANDONOVA

Co-Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science

The Centre for International Environmental Studies is dedicated to developing scholarly research and discourse on global environmental challenges.

→ In 2016, the Centre welcomed Professor Susanna Hecht, recently appointed in the Department of International History, in its team of core faculty members

→ Of the 12 ongoing projects, several were finalised in 2016, including the project on “Transnational Climate Change Governance” and the project funded by the Swiss Network for International Studies on “Access to Clean Energy for the Green Economy in Developing Countries”, which ended with an academic workshop bringing together 20 interdisciplinary scholars to discuss climate policy innovation and access to clean energy technology

→ The Centre achieved some significant research outputs, with 2 book contributions and 17 articles published in academic journals and an equal amount accepted for publication to appear in 2017. Two special issues, respectively on “Innovation, Diffusion and Green Growth” (co-edited by Joëlle Noailly and Timothy Swanson) and on “The Comparative Politics of Transnational Climate Governance” (co-edited by Liliana Andonova) appeared in leading journals

→ Finally, throughout 2016, the Centre organised and participated in several public events and continued to actively engage with the International Geneva community (e.g. UNEP, Green Growth Knowledge Platform, Geneva Environment Network, WIPO)

RICHARD BALDWIN

Co-Director, Professor of International Economics

JOOST PAUWELYN

Co-Director, Professor of International Law

The Centre for Trade and Economic Integration fosters world-class multidisciplinary scholarship aimed at developing solutions to problems facing the world trade system and economic integration in general. In doing so, it develops the Graduate Institute as a global hub for the study of trade and economic integration policy issues.

→ 2016 was an excellent year for the Centre, which continued to augment research outputs, to practice interdisciplinarity and to raise the profile of the Graduate Institute, primarily through its activities that are closely linked with International Geneva. All the Centre’s core activities – funded research projects, events and publications – involve to some degree the close links forged with International Geneva

→ Highlights of 2016 included three new funded research projects, among which a project funded by Qatar National Research Foundation, a first for the Institute

→ Other highlights were the hosting of the 16th Annual Conference on WTO Law organised in partnership with Georgetown Law and the British Institute for International and Comparative Law. The Centre also hosted talks by two prominent trade ministers, former US Trade Representative Michael Froman and European Commissioner for Trade Cecilia Malmström

→ The past year has seen trade rise right to the top of the international agenda, but not for “right” reasons. A smoldering anti-openness sentiment caught flame in 2016 with the Brexit and Trump votes. This change, which engenders deep, complex and unpredictable consequences, has brought the Centre’s work into the spotlight and made its work more valuable than ever

KEITH KRAUSE

Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science

STEPHANIE HOFMANN

Deputy Director, Associate Professor of International Relations/Political Science

The Centre on Conflict, Development and Peacebuilding unites a pluri-disciplinary team of over 40 faculty members, research staff and affiliates to engage in joint research initiatives in the areas of conflict analysis, peacebuilding and the complex relationships between security and development.

→ Fundraising for new research projects was central to the work undertaken in 2016. Themes ranged from violence prevention and illicit financial flows in the commodity-trading sector to transitional justice and security sector governance. Successful applications included multi-year funding from the Sinergia and r4d programmes of the Swiss National Science Foundation

→ The Centre maintained its active engagement with International Geneva through a variety of public events, workshops, and applied research mandates for international organisations and donor governments. It continued to host the Geneva Peacebuilding Platform

<http://graduateinstitute.ch/genre>

ELISABETH PRÜGL

Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science

The Gender Centre produces transformative research that questions gendered power relations in development and international relations.

→ In March 2016 the Institute announced that the former Programme on Gender and Global Change had successfully achieved centre status. The move recognised the enormous achievements of faculty and researchers since the early days of Pôle genre et développement through to recent success in securing two six-year Research for Development grants from the Swiss National Science Foundation (SNSF). Other notable successes of the Centre included the e-learning programme (over 60 participants in 2016); a 24-month grant on gender and solidarity economy from the Swiss Network for International Studies; the conclusion of the SNSF grant on “Gender Experts and Gender Expertise”; and a network

grant from the UK Economic and Social Research Council on its first LGBTI work stream

→ The Centre updated its core areas of expertise to reflect expansion and growth and the recruitment of new postdoctoral research coordinators and centre affiliates. Working globally, its researchers combine expertise from different disciplines to focus on four key areas: political economy; international governance; conflict and peacebuilding; reproductive politics and justice

→ The Centre increased outreach during 2016, hosting 17 public events. Many of these were organised in partnership with organisations and missions from International Geneva, thereby deepening networks and cementing the Centre’s place within multilateral policy circles

ILONA KICKBUSCH

Director, Adjunct Professor

The Global Health Centre focuses its activities on global health governance and global health diplomacy, which inform each other.

- In 2016, the Global Health Programme transitioned into the Global Health Centre with the vision to expand its activities, especially in the research area. Its successful positioning in global health diplomacy and governance for global health continued throughout the year
- The nature of the research projects remained in the applied policy domain, accompanied by expert advice, policy dialogues, and publications by the Centre. In addition to the two ongoing research projects on “How to Break the Gridlock on Global Health Governance”, funded by the Swiss Network for International Studies, and on “Polio Eradication: Overcoming the Final Barriers and Ensuring a Lasting Legacy for Health Systems”, funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the following three research-related projects were initiated during the year: “Challenges of Governing the Global Health Domain”, “What Defines Global Health Leadership in the 21st Century”, and “Mapping Public Interest R&D Norms, Policies and Practices”
- The Centre continued to act as a neutral platform for policy dialogues, events, and conferences. Twenty-one events were organised by the Centre in Geneva and 10 events outside of Geneva. In addition, Maison de la paix has become a new venue for side events during the period of the World Health Assembly with the “Briefing for New WHA Delegates” and five other events having been organised by the Centre during this week. This contributed, inter alia, to manifesting Geneva as a strategic location for policy and intellectual debates. Building on the 2015 think tank initiative on accelerating the implementation of global health, the Centre also organised, together with the International Development Research Centre and the Fundação Oswaldo Cruz, a regional meeting of policy think tanks and academic institutions for the Latin American region in late 2016
- As a third pillar of activities, the Centre implemented executive training courses and high-level seminars in global health diplomacy, targeting mid- and senior-career level participants. A total of eight executive courses were organised worldwide by the Centre, out of which five were held in Geneva and were integrated with the Executive Education programming of the Institute. In addition, two seminars were held in Sri Lanka to prepare staff of the Ministry of Health for the WHO SEARO Regional Meeting and one seminar was held in Iran. For the first time, a tailor-made course on multi-stakeholder diplomacy was organised for the Provincial Health Services of the Hunan Province in PR China. In total, approximately 200 participants were trained in global health diplomacy by the Centre in 2016

The Global Migration Centre conducts advanced research and provides policy-relevant expertise on the multifaceted causes and consequences of global migration. The major assets of the Centre are its focus on the transnational dimensions of migration and its interdisciplinary orientation.

→ Important efforts were made over the year to strengthen the Centre’s research within this topical yet sensitive field. Indeed, there were no fewer than 12 ongoing projects in 2016, including several conducted with eminent partners. In parallel, fundraising remained a top priority on the agenda, with 9 proposals having been submitted to various funding agencies

→ Throughout the year, 27 publications disseminated the Centre’s expertise within scientific and policy circles. To further inform the public debate over migration, the Centre also organised 10 events – including 8 in collaboration with external partners such as OHCHR, UNHCR, and IOM – and experts from the Centre featured in local and international media on 17 occasions

THOMAS J. BIERSTEKER

Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science and Curt Gasteyer Chair in International Security and Conflict Studies

The Programme for the Study of International Governance offers students, faculty, and practitioners in International Geneva the opportunity to examine and critically discuss theoretical and empirical research on international governance.

→ The Programme was awarded three major externally funded research grants in 2016. It continued to attract high quality senior and junior visiting fellows, and carried on with its public seminar series, workshops, and conferences for specialised International Geneva audiences

→ The considerable success in research grants awarded led to the Programme doubling in personnel size and tripling in activity by the end of 2016. Professor Thomas Biersteker, Professor Cédric Dupont, Dr Cecilia Cannon and Dr Velibor Jakovleski were awarded Swiss National Science Foundation funding to examine “What Types of Reform Enhance an International Organisation’s Effectiveness?”. Professor Grégoire Mallard was awarded a prestigious European Research Council starting grant to assess “Bombs, Banks and Sanctions: A Sociology of the Transnational Legal Field of Nuclear Non-proliferation” (see p. 44) and Dr Erica Moret was awarded a Clore Duffield Foundation grant to look at “Europe in Crisis: What Role for Economic Sanctions?”. Working with the United Nations University and the UN Office of Geneva, the Programme convened representatives from leading research organisations and research departments of major UN agencies at a two-day conference on “Strengthening the UN’s Research Uptake.” The Programme additionally co-organised a public conference with the Dag Hammarskjöld Foundation, bringing together over 120 representatives from the UN system, member states, academia, non-governmental organisations, and students to identify gaps and generate recommendations for the UN’s normative work in light of the 2030 Agenda

Les programmes associés

Associated Programmes

A côté de la recherche universitaire, l'Institut accomplit des contrats d'expertise ou de recherche appliquée pour un certain nombre de gouvernements et d'organisations internationales.

Il effectue en particulier pour le gouvernement suisse – principalement le Département fédéral des affaires étrangères (DFAE), la Direction du développement et de la coopération (DDC) et le Secrétariat d'État à l'économie (SECO) – une série de contrats qui vont de la recherche appliquée (Bilateral Assistance and Capacity Building for Central Banks, Small Arms Survey) à la gestion de plateformes internationales (DiploFoundation, the Geneva Peacebuilding Platform, the Global Commission on Drug Policy, Inclusive Peace and Transition Initiative, Network for International Policies and Cooperation in Education and Training – NORRAG) et à la réalisation de programmes de formation continue.

In addition to academic research, the Institute provides commissioned expertise and applied research for a number of governments and international organisations.

For the Swiss government (mainly the Federal Department of Foreign Affairs, the Agency for Development and Cooperation, and the State Secretariat for Economic Affairs), the Institute has been mandated to carry out applied research (Bilateral Assistance and Capacity Building for Central Banks, Small Arms Survey) and to manage international platforms (DiploFoundation, the Geneva Peacebuilding Platform, the Global Commission on Drug Policy, Inclusive Peace and Transition Initiative, the Geneva Peacebuilding Platform, Network for International Policies and Cooperation in Education and Training – NORRAG) as well as to conduct Executive Education programmes.

The Programme builds on the Graduate Institute's longstanding expertise in providing tailored technical assistance to partner countries. It supports the development of research skills in partner institutions with coaching by Institute faculty, as well as providing researchers the opportunity to spend a semester at the Institute.

→ The Programme organises a series of technical assistance expert missions in participating countries. It also supports research projects in partner central banks through the coaching of researchers by Graduate Institute professors and semester-long visits at the Institute. Eleven projects were supported in 2016, including four semester-long visits

→ Synergies across countries are developed through an annual conference and regional workshops that bring together high-level academics, policymakers and senior figures from central banks. The 2016 annual conference, "Policy Response to Commodity Price Fluctuations", was held jointly with SECO in Geneva on 15 and 16 September. A regional workshop, "Policy Lessons and Challenges for Emerging Economies in a Context of Global Uncertainty", was held with the Banco de la Republica – Colombia in Cartagena on 3 and 4 October

DiploFoundation

JOVAN KURBALIJA

Director

➔ www.diplomacy.edu

DiploFoundation (Diplo) is a non-profit foundation established in 2002 by the governments of Malta and Switzerland. Diplo works to increase the role of small and developing states, and to improve global governance and international policy development, with a particular focus on digital policy and e-diplomacy.

Via its capacity development programmes, Diplo assists small and developing states in increasing their ability to influence their own future and development, international accountability and inclusivity, and the legitimacy of international policymaking.

One of Diplo's main projects is the Geneva Internet Platform, an initiative supported by the Swiss authorities. The Platform fulfils the mission of an observatory, a capacity building centre (online and in situ), and a centre for discussion, contributing to making the governance of the Internet more inclusive.

➔ In 2016, Diplo's capacity development programmes, online courses, and other training opportunities continued to grow to reach an alumni community of more than 5,400, covering 200 countries and territories around the globe. The Geneva Internet Platform considerably increased its impact in Geneva and globally, while the GIP Digital Watch online observatory earned further recognition and became a reference point for neutral reporting and coverage of global digital policy developments

With a network of over 4,000 peacebuilding professionals and over 60 institutions, the Geneva Peacebuilding Platform facilitates interaction between different institutions and sectors, advances new knowledge and understanding of peacebuilding issues, and helps build bridges between International Geneva, the United Nations peacebuilding architecture in New York, and peacebuilding activities in the field.

Founded in 2008, the Platform provides policy advice and services; the continuous exchange of information through seminars, consultations and conferences; and outcome-focused peacebuilding dialogues.

➔ 2016 saw a marked advance in some of the Platform's key initiatives with an expanded partnership base for the Geneva Peace Week, the creation of the Peace Talks Initiative in collaboration with UNOG and Interpeace, as well as networking activities on urban safety and peacebuilding prior to the HABITAT III Summit

Global Commission on Drug Policy

Funded by Open Society Foundations, Virgin Unite, Oak Foundation and the Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs

KHALID TINASTI

Executive Secretary

➔ www.globalcommissionondrugs.org

The Global Commission on Drug Policy was established in 2011 by political leaders, cultural figures, and globally influential personalities from the financial and business sectors. The Commission currently comprises 24 members, including 10 former heads of state or government and a former Secretary General of the United Nations.

The mission of the Commission is to promote evidence-based drug policy reforms at international, national and regional levels. These reforms must also address issues of public health, social integration and security, with strict regard for human rights.

➔ Highlights of 2016 included the launch of the Commission's sixth yearly report, Advancing Drug Policy Reform: A New Approach to Decriminalization, and the hosting of an event on health and human rights-centered drug policies to mark the installation of the Commission secretariat in International Geneva

Inclusive Peace and Transition Initiative

The Inclusive Peace and Transition Initiative is dedicated to evidence-based research on peace and transition processes and has a distinct mandate to transfer knowledge and experience to policy and practice. The Initiative's research is based on two large qualitative datasets comprising currently almost 50 peace and transition processes. The objective of the Initiative is to support sustainable peace by providing expertise on inclusion of diverse actors and issues in peace and transition processes, through evidence-based research, direct advice, training, as well as publications and a web portal.

➔ In 2016, the Initiative continued to conduct research to further develop its datasets and make use of its data for various research projects. The focus was on women in peace negotiations, national dialogues, and state legitimacy and inclusion. The Initiative advised various actors, ranging from UN (mediators) and international organisations over governments to conflict parties and local peacebuilding organisation in 12 peace processes, among others Afghanistan, Colombia, Libya, Philippines, Somalia, South Sudan, Syria, Ukraine and Yemen

➔ The Initiative also contributed evidence to inform development of international normative policy frameworks, e.g. in the International Women, Peace and Security Agenda. Subsequently, it applied this evidence operationally in the UN Women's programme "Enhancing Women's Leadership in the MENA Region" in the Libyan, Syrian, Iraqi and Yemen peace processes (2016–2019). The Initiative was contracted by the World Bank to conduct research on the link between inclusion and the prevention of violent conflicts, contributing to the World Bank's and UN Flagship Study on the Prevention of Violent Conflict. For the UN Department of Political Affairs, the Initiative produced a report on national dialogues from which knowledge is already used in decision-making and support in the field, e.g. South Sudan

➔ In 2016, the Initiative published 16 papers in various formats, ranging from research reports over context-specific case studies to briefs in English, French, Spanish, Arabic, Russian and Turkish. Its website was consulted over 80,000 times from more than 160 countries, the resource portal thereon over 4,000 times. Furthermore, the Initiative hosted 5 events and made active contributions to over 50 high-level events in International Geneva and beyond, and has an ever-growing followership on social media (Twitter, LinkedIn, Facebook)

MICHEL CARTON
Executive Director

JOOST MONKS
Managing Director

➔ www.norrag.org

NORRAG informs, challenges and influences policy-making and dialogue on international education and training policies at the national, regional and international levels. NORRAG's core mandate and strength is to produce, disseminate and broker critical knowledge and build capacity for and with a wide range of stakeholders involved in informing and shaping policy and practice, both at the national and international levels.

Established in 1985, NORRAG builds on its distinctive global "brand" and network representing academia, government, NGOs, international organisations, foundations and the private sector. Currently, NORRAG has more than 4,800 registered members in 171 countries, 48% from the Global South. Its scope of work includes policy research, knowledge production and dissemination, policy dialogue and capacity development.

NORRAG seeks to inform and influence policies and practice on a number of key thematic clusters, including: Agenda 2030 and global governance; reform of education and training systems; and youth and vocational skills development.

➔ Highlights in 2016 included the launch of a conference series on the Global Governance of Education and Training in Geneva, followed by a number of follow-up events and publications, the extension of its work on skills development for marginalised populations in South Africa and India, the set-up of a new capacity development collaboration in Western Africa, as well as continued participation and contributions to international debates on education and training across different regions of the world

The Small Arms Survey

Funded by the Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs and current or recent contributions from the governments of Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nigeria, Norway, Sweden, the United Kingdom, and the United States, as well as the European Union and parts of the UN System

Established in 1999, the Small Arms Survey is a global centre of excellence whose mandate is to generate impartial, evidence-based, and policy-relevant knowledge and analysis on all aspects of small arms and armed violence. It serves as a resource for governments, policymakers, researchers, and civil society.

➔ In 2016, the Survey produced 30 publications and co-publications. Highlights included outputs on measuring illicit arms flows, monitoring violent deaths, weapons sales on social networks, the Arms Trade Treaty, and the global small arms trade

LA FORMATION CONTINUE EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

Les programmes de formation continue

Executive Education Programmes

Dans un monde en perpétuelle évolution et interconnecté, les dirigeants doivent savoir naviguer entre les secteurs, les régions et les cultures. Les programmes de formation continue offrent une occasion inégalée d'acquérir les compétences nécessaires pour réussir à appréhender les enjeux mondiaux touchant les individus et leurs organisations.

Les participants et les enseignants de la formation continue représentent un éventail diversifié de secteurs, de régions et de professions. Cette diversité est un point fort de la participation aux programmes de formation continue et une source de richesse pour la communauté des alumni.

En 2016, la formation continue a offert plus de 20 programmes. Les programmes diplômants ont accueilli près de 160 participants, les programmes courts près de 100 participants et les programmes sur mesure 150 participants.

Operating in today's rapidly changing and inter-connected world requires leaders to navigating across sectors, regions and cultures. Executive Education programmes provide an unparalleled opportunity to acquire the skills needed to successfully navigate critical global issues that have an impact upon individuals and their organisations.

Executive Education participants and professors represent a diverse array of sectors, regions and expertise. This unique mix is a key feature of the experience of participating in Executive Education programmes and a source of richness for the Alumni community.

In 2016, Executive Education conducted more than 20 programmes. Some 160 participants completed Executive Education degree-granting programmes, nearly 100 participated in short programmes, and 150 professionals participated in customised programmes.

Innovative Problem-Solving Techniques at Executive Education

Executive Education programmes are designed for action. They provide participants with innovative problem-solving tools to help them address their professional challenges. The focus has been on action-oriented techniques at the intersection where markets, states and societies collide and compete, collaborate and innovate.

In 2016, Executive Education further developed its expertise in two specific methodologies, foresight and design thinking.

Foresight – How Do We Build the Future We Want?

Foresight is a regular feature in most Executive Education programmes at the institute, with Cédric Dupont, Director of Executive Education, and Valérie D’Hoedt Meyer, Director of Academic Development, as lead facilitators.

Foresight encompasses a set of methodological tools that build on the premise that the future is not predetermined. It is neither a prophecy nor a prediction but a process through which people and organisations can envisage plausible futures, each of which is a call for action.

In 2016, Executive Education organised two in-depth open innovation workshops using foresight, the first on the future of environmental governance and the second on the future of the nation state. Both exercises concluded with an insight session where participants were invited to reflect on the consequences of those alternative futures for their organisation.

The methodology has been perceived as very powerful and Executive Education has been requested to organise dedicated foresight workshops for some of its participants’ employers.

Indeed, once alternative futures have been identified and developed, the organisation can reflect upon the following questions: How do we build the future we want? How do we prepare for threats and opportunities that these futures will bring, test assumptions and evaluate the resilience of strategies and solutions? Foresight can also help us focus our attention on what is really important and set our priorities as an organisation, or more broadly as a society.

Design Thinking – Divergent Thinking for Actionable Solutions

Design thinking fosters divergent thinking, inspiration and experimentation leading to prototypes to be tested and retested with a view to deliver actionable solutions.

Executive Education introduced this problem-solving method in one of its flagship programmes this year. The workshop focused on the concept of universal basic income as a potential solution to the challenges envisaged in the context of the future of work.

Next year, Executive Education plans on continuing to foster innovation and the co-creation of actionable solutions through “Action Days”. Those short workshops aim at attracting a wide variety of participants who have an interest in joining our community of practice and come up with innovative solutions to complex challenges.

Public Events

Chaque année, l'Institut accueille plus de 200 événements publics, qui permettent de mieux appréhender les grands défis du monde et de découvrir les activités ainsi que la mission de l'Institut, tout en faisant de la Maison de la paix le principal lieu d'échange et d'expertise de la Genève internationale.

Lors des conférences, des colloques, des tables rondes et des projections de films, les experts de l'Institut débattent des grands sujets internationaux avec des orateurs de renom issus du secteur public et privé ainsi que du troisième secteur. Ces événements très animés et interactifs sont pour la plupart filmés et retransmis en direct à un large public.

Cette année, l'Institut a eu le plaisir d'accueillir des personnalités exceptionnelles, parmi lesquelles :

- PATRICK AEBISCHER président de l'École polytechnique fédérale de Lausanne
- LEILA ALIKARAMI Iranian human rights lawyer
- KOFI ANNAN former United Nations Secretary-General
- JOSÉ MANUEL BARROSO former President of the European Commission
- FATOU BENSOUDA Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court
- HIS HOLINESS THE DALAI LAMA 1989 Nobel Peace Prize Laureate

- FILIPPO GRANDI United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees
- TAWAKKOL ABDEL-SALAM KARMAN 2011 Nobel Peace Prize
- AISA KIRABO KACYIRA Deputy Executive Director and Assistant Secretary-General of UN-Habitat
- GILLES KEPPEL professeur à Sciences Po, Paris
- BERNARD KOUCHNER cofondateur de Médecins sans frontières

Every year, the Graduate Institute hosts over 200 public events, advancing public understanding of major global challenges, building awareness of the Institute's activities and mission, and developing Maison de la paix as International Geneva's main hub for intellectual exchange.

Through conferences, lectures, panel discussions and film screenings, Institute experts debate international issues with world-class speakers from the public-, not-for-profit and private sector. Many of these lively, interactive events are filmed and broadcast live to a wide global audience.

This year, the Institute had the pleasure to welcome outstanding international figures, among whom:

- PAUL KRUGMAN 2008 Nobel Economic Science Prize Laureate
- RICARDO LAGOS ancien président du Chili
- DORIS LEUTHARD conseillère fédérale
- CECILIA MALMSTRÖM European Commissioner for Trade

Opening Lecture of the 2016–2017 Academic Year WHAT HAVE WE LEARNT FROM THE CRISIS?

Paul KRUGMAN

Distinguished Professor of Economics, City University of New York, and 2008 Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Sciences

Recipient of the 2016 Prix International Edgar de Picciotto

Rolf Soiron

Paul Krugman

Paul Krugman, Prix Nobel d'économie 2008, reçoit le prix international Edgar de Picciotto 2016

En septembre, Paul Krugman, distinguished professor d'économie au Graduate Center de la City University of New York, commentateur prolifique au New York Times et Prix Nobel d'économie 2008 pour son analyse des modèles d'échanges internationaux et la localisation de l'activité économique, a reçu le prix international Edgar de Picciotto 2016. Il a ensuite donné la conférence d'ouverture de l'année académique, « What Have We Learnt from the Crisis? ». Dans sa présentation, le professeur Krugman a évalué les conséquences de la récente récession et répondu aux nombreuses questions des étudiants, des professeurs et des invités.

L'Institut a créé le prix international Edgar de Picciotto pour rendre hommage et marquer sa reconnaissance à M. Edgar de Picciotto. En faisant un don de 20 millions de francs qui a largement financé la construction de la Maison des étudiants, M. de Picciotto et sa famille ont apporté un soutien extraordinaire en facilitant l'accueil d'étudiants du monde entier.

Le prix international Edgar de Picciotto est attribué tous les deux ans à une personnalité universitaire de renommée internationale qui a contribué par ses recherches à une meilleure compréhension des défis mondiaux et dont les travaux ont influencé les décideurs politiques. Le prix a été remis en 2012 à Amartya Sen, Prix Nobel d'économie 1998, et en 2014 à Saul Friedländer, Prix Pulitzer 2008.

“The crisis of 2008 and its aftermath have taken place in an environment in which conservative ideology retains a powerful position in real-world politics and the academy alike. (...) Relatively few economists or policymakers are willing to reconsider their views despite overwhelming empirical refutation. But some people fight it; they make a conscious effort to avoid seeing what they want to see, asking ‘is this the evidence talking, or my preconceptions?’ If your reaction to events is that they just show that you were right all along, consider how unlikely that is, and challenge yourself. If there’s any offsetting benefit to economic crisis, it is that it can be a learning experience.”

PAUL KRUGMAN

Nobel Laureates on Human Rights: A View from Civil Society

On 11 March, the Graduate Institute welcomed two Nobel Peace Prize laureates for an event on human rights and the role of civil society: His Holiness the Dalai Lama, spiritual leader of Tibetan Buddhism, and Tawakkol Karman, Yemeni activist for women's rights and full participation in democratic processes. They were joined by Leila Alikarami, Iranian human rights lawyer.

The event was co-organised with the US and Canadian permanent missions to the United Nations in Geneva as a side event to the 31st session of the Human Rights Council, and was moderated by Kate Gilmore, UN Deputy High Commissioner for Human Rights.

Right Livelihood Award

On 30 November, the Graduate Institute organised a debate with laureates of the 2016 Right Livelihood Award, commonly known as the "Alternative Nobel Prize". Syria Civil Defence (The White Helmets) were honoured for rescuing civilians from the destruction of the Syrian civil war, while Mozn Hassan/Nazra for Feminist Studies were recognised for helping Egyptian women subjected to violence, abuse and discrimination. The other laureates were Russian human rights activist Svetlana Gannushkina, founder of a programme that offers legal aid and education to migrants and refugees, and Turkish daily newspaper Cumhuriyet, which has been at the forefront of that country's struggle for a free press.

Les Disputes de la Maison de la paix

L'idée des disputes revient à Charles Kleiber, ancien secrétaire d'État à l'éducation et à la recherche, qui se préoccupait, comme Yves Oltramare, ancien associé de la banque Lombard, Odier & C^{ie} et ami de longue date de l'Institut, d'organiser un espace de débat sur les défis auxquels la Suisse est confrontée, en situant la discussion dans le cadre international qui permet d'analyser pleinement ces défis et d'imaginer des solutions réalistes.

La première dispute s'est tenue à la Maison de la paix le 5 avril 2016 sur le thème « Immigration : chance ou danger? ». Elle était introduite par la projection d'Ailleurs, un court-métrage réalisé par Charles Kleiber.

The 2016 Geneva Challenge – Urbanisation

Supported by Ambassador Jenö Staehelin

The Geneva Challenge, the Advancing Development Goals International Student Competition, created thanks to the vision and generosity of Swiss Ambassador Jenö Staehelin and under the patronage of Kofi Annan, is an annual contest which encourages master students to bridge the gap between their studies and real development policy by developing innovative and practical proposals for effecting change.

The challenge for 2016 was to address urbanisation by proposing how lives can be improved in urban settings while underpinning social and economic development. From the 114 project entries submitted, three finalists were selected to present their projects at the Graduate Institute:

- CityProgress – Web Portal for Active Data Sharing, Dissemination and Analysis for Disaster Risk Reduction: New York University and University of Pennsylvania city planning graduate students came together with MBA students from India's Institute of Foreign Trade and Xavier Institute of Management to propose a solution for disaster risk reduction
- MINGA – Collective Waste Management: a team from Universidad Nacional de Colombia and London School of Economics and Political Science proposed a solution for urban waste management, using Bogota as a case study
- The Micro Farm Network – Applying a Nexus Approach to Food Security in Kibera: students from London School of Economics and Political Science tackled the issue of urban slums by proposing a nexus approach to alleviate the problems of childhood malnutrition and polluted water sources

After an afternoon presentation of the projects in front of the jury and a lively debate, the first prize was awarded to the MINGA team. The CityProgress team came second and the Micro Farm network team third.

The prizes were handed out on 15 November by Aisa Kirabo Kacyira, Deputy Executive Director and Assistant Secretary-General for UN-Habitat, who gave a keynote speech on the challenges of sustainable urbanisation, and Ambassador Jenö Staehelin, President of the jury.

“We’re setting out to improve solid waste management systems through behavioural change and by enhancing and recognising the role of waste pickers. The project consists of an app connecting waste pickers to households and users, and intervention in public spaces to indicate where to place recyclable and non-recyclable waste. We’re hoping to change the world, street by street!”
