EDITED BOOK CHAPTER

About the Definition of an International Investment: The Requirement of a Contribution to the Economic Development of the Host State

Pierre-Marie Dupuy demonstrates that after more than thirty years of ICSID case law, the true meaning of "investment" remains unclear, despite the fact that it remains so central to the discipline (in Jurisdiction in Investment Treaty Arbitration, JurisNet, November 2017).

EDITED BOOK CHAPTER

Locations and Locutions: Unravelling the Concept of "World Anthropology"

Andrew Brandel, Veena Das and Shalini Randeria argue that despite the well-intentioned gestures behind such categorical innovations as "world anthropology", a serious discussion of the theoretical inputs from places outside the US and Western Europe is still lacking (in Post-Western Sociology: From China to Europe, ed. L. Roulleau-Berger and Li Peilin, Routledge, June 2018).

BOOK REVIEW

Europe and the People without History

Susanna Hecht reviews Wolf's 1982 masterwork, which "helped to undermine the reductionism and fatalism surrounding peasantries and rural populations, by helping to clarify the durability and range of rural forms, along with the natures of the connectivities and disjunctures within the broader ambits of comparative history and ethnography" (in The Journal of Peasant Studies, January 2018).

REPORT

Independent Report on the Greek Official Debt

Although Greece's third economic programme gives reason for cautious optimism, the country will require further debt relief. In this CEPR Policy Insight (no. 92, March 2018) Barry Eichengreen, Charles Wyplosz, Ugo Panizza et al. argue that any further debt relief plan should be based on realistic long-term assumptions and provide Greece with effective incentives to comply.
