Global Health

ARTICLE

The Power of the Public Purse: Financing of Global Health Partnerships and Agenda Setting for Sustainability

Public-private partnerships (PPPs) have advanced collaboration on core issues such as health, clean energy, the rights of women and children, and access to infrastructure. Which actors create and finance PPPs in global governance to advance those objectives? What are the implications of the agency behind such collaboration? Liliana Andonova probes this debate in her contribution to the Chinese Journal of Population Resources and Environment (vol. 16, no. 3, Oct. 2018).

International Law and Feeding the World in Times of Climate Change

This paper by Anne Saab for Transnational Legal Theory (published online Dec. 2018) explores the role that international law plays in constructing a neoliberal narrative of hunger and a food sovereignty narrative of hunger in the context of climate change.

EDITED BOOK CHAPTER

Transferring Technologies

Using a polycentric approach, this chapter by Liliana Andonova, Paula Castro and Kathryn Chelminski focuses on the governance of transferring clean energy technologies to developing countries, covering the technologies, services and processes that reduce energy consumption and enable a transition to a low-carbon economy (in Governing Climate Change: Polycentricity in Action?, ed. Andrew Jordan et al., Cambridge University Press, 2018).

WORKING PAPER

Do Financing Constraints Matter for the Direction of Technical Change in Energy R&D?

In this CIES Research Paper (no 58, Dec. 2018), Joëlle Noailly and Roger Smeets provide some novel empirical evidence on the impacts of financing constraints on innovation in renewable and fossil-fuel technologies.

CHAPITRE D'OUVRAGE COLLECTIF

La distribution de la charge de protéger l'environnement: expressions juridiques de la solidarité

Dans sa contribution à Face à l'irresponsabilité: la dynamique de la solidarité (dir. Alain Supiot, Collège de France, 2018), Jorge Viñuales cartographie les niveaux de solidarité distributive dans le cadre de la protection juridique de l'environnement pour analyser certaines techniques tirées de divers corps juridiques, notamment en ce qui concerne les activités de l'entreprise multinationale.

Finance and Development

WORKING PAPER

Quantitative Easing in the Euro Area and SMEs' Access to Finance: Who Benefits the Most?

This working paper by PhD Candidate Anne Kathrin Funk (no. HEIDWP-02-2019) analyses the impact of the ECB's Public Sector Purchase Programme on the access to finance of small- and medium-sized enterprises, using firm-level data of the Survey on the Access to Finance of Enterprises and a fixed effects model.

RESEARCH REPORT

SCBF Housing Microfinance Results Study: Cambodia and El Salvador

Based on a series of staff interviews and client household surveys implemented in Cambodia and El Salvador between January and April 2018, this report by Andres Torrico Ramirez, Christophe Gironde and Abel Gelman focuses on two interventions aimed at assisting institutions to expand housing microfinance products for low-income households (Graduate Institute and Swiss Capacity Building Facility, 2018).

BOOK CHAPTER

Human Rights Obligations for Non-State Actors: Where Are We Now?

Like all the contributions of this Liber Amicorum (Doing Peace the Rights Way: Essays in International Law and Relations in Honour of Louise Arbour, ed. F. Lafontaine and F. Larocque, Intersentia, 2019), the book chapter by Andrew Clapham deals with the interaction between justice and peace, between human rights and conflict, and between law and politics, in the international sphere or domestic context.

Migration and Refugees

ARTICLE

The Limits of Skill-Selective Migration Policies: Welfare States and the Commodification of Labour Immigrants

Why do some countries have more selective labour immigration policies than others? Melanie Kolbe and Elif Naz Kayran tackle this issue by developing an original measure of skill selectivity in labour immigration policies for industrialised democracies between 2000 and 2010 (in Journal of European Social Policy, Feb. 2019).

Gender

ARTICLE

Discrimination in Any Shape or Form: Black Activism and Women's Rights in Interwar Bermuda

The 1930s and 40s saw a spike in antiracist and women's rights activism in Bermuda. Nicole Bourbonnais explores the alliance and break-up between the white-dominated Bermuda Woman's Suffrage Society (BWSS) and the Afro-Bermudian Recorder newspaper (in the Caribbean Review of Gender Studies, no. 12, Dec. 2018).

SPECIAL ISSUE AND ARTICLES

Gender Experts and Gender Expertise

The rise of gender expertise and gender experts as a new profession is a significant and controversial phenomenon of contemporary feminist politics, which is explored by the European Journal of Politics and Gender in its latest special issue (vol. 2, no. 1, Feb. 2019), coedited and introduced by Elisabeth Prügl and Rahel Kunz. It also includes an article by the editors and Hayley Thompson on "Gender Expertise in Global Governance: Contesting the Boundaries of a Field" and an article by Lucy Ferguson, research associate at the Gender Centre, on "Exploring Privilege through Feminist Gender Training".

ARTICLE

Baseball Arbitration to Resolve International Law Disputes: Hit or Miss?

This article by Joost Pauwelyn (in Florida Tax Review, vol. 22, no. 1, 2018) assesses a concrete proposal that may address some of the current backlash against international courts and tribunals: baseball arbitration, also known as final offer arbitration (FOA), where disputing parties each offer an answer to the dispute (their “final offer”) and the adjudicator’s task is strictly limited to picking one or the other answer (“hit or miss”).

ARTICLE

Exit from International Tribunals

This commentary by Joost Pauwelyn and Rebecca Hamilton provide a comprehensive overview of the attempts that states have made to exit international tribunals over the past decade. In a time of growing populism, it is easy, but also simplistic, to lay all the blame for tribunal exit at the feet of parochial national leaders (in Journal of International Dispute Settlement, vol. 9, no. 4, Dec. 2018).

EDITED VOLUME

Palestine and Rule of Power: Local Dissent vs. International Governance

This new volume published by Palgrave Macmillan addresses issues of resistance, steadfastness and mobilisation against settler colonialism and repression in Palestine.

Alaa Tartir, affiliated with CCDP and ANSO, is its coeditor with Timothy Seidel, from Eastern Mennonite University.

ARTICLE

Civil Society Inclusion in Peacebuilding: Who, How, and So What?

Drawing on a consultation with over 170 local and international peacebuilding practitioners and academics, Jenny Aulin, Civil Society Programme Manager at IPTI, explains that how people self-organise, claim access and hold powerful actors to account is integral to any peace process (Accord series, no. 28, March 2019).

DISCUSSION PAPER

International Buyers' Sourcing and Suppliers' Markups in Bangladeshi Garments

Bangladesh is known for its fast-growing clothing industry. How do its firms trade with international buyers? How do these relationships impact the country's development strategy? Those questions are at the core of a CEPR paper that Julia Cajal Grossi wrote with Rocco Macchiavello and Guillermo Noguera.
