

THE GRADUATE
INSTITUTE
GENEVA

GLOBAL HEALTH CENTRE

GLOBAL HEALTH MEDIA: RACONTEURS, PROVOCATEURS, GATE-KEEPERS?

BIOGRAPHIES OF SPEAKERS

SPEAKERS

JULIA BELLUZ

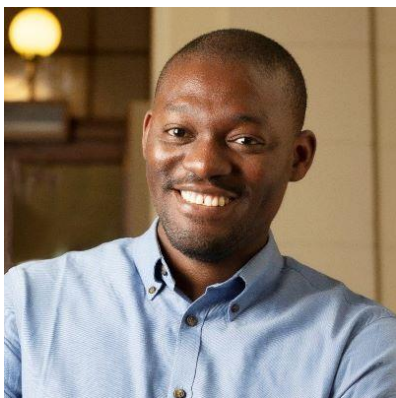

Senior Health Correspondent, VOX

Julia Belluz is Vox's Senior Health Correspondent, currently based in Vienna, Austria. She reports on medicine, science, and global public health across platforms and media. Before joining Vox, Julia was a Knight Science Journalism fellow at MIT. Her writing has appeared in a range of international publications, including the BMJ, the Chicago Tribune and the Economist. Julia has been honoured by numerous journalism awards, including the 2016 Balles Prize in Critical Thinking and the 2017 American Society of Nutrition Journalism Award. Outside of reporting, she speaks regularly at universities and conferences the world over. She holds an MSc from the London School of Economics.

SEYE ABIMBOLA

Editor in Chief, BMJ Global Health; Senior Lecturer and Research Fellow, School of Public Health, University of Sydney

Seye Abimbola is a health systems researcher, a global health scholar, and a senior lecturer in global health at the University of Sydney, Australia. He studies community engagement in governance, decentralised governance, and the role of governance in the adoption and scale up of health system innovations. He is the current Prince Claus Chair (on Justice in Global Health Research) at Utrecht University in the Netherlands, where he is drawing insight from his ongoing research on health system governance to inform global health practice. He is the editor in chief of BMJ Global Health.

MODERATOR

SIÂN BOWEN

Communications Manager, Geneva Centre of Humanitarian Studies

Siân Bowen is a communications professional with 20 years of experience working in the humanitarian sector in various communications management roles. She has achieved a rich understanding of the sector, having worked for various international organisations including IFRC, MSF, Norwegian Refugee Council and the International AIDS Society. She is currently responsible for communications at the Geneva Centre of Humanitarian Studies, a joint centre of the University of Geneva and the Graduate Institute. She has a background in political science, social research, media and public relations.