ARTICLE | Bróderes in Arms: Gangs and the socialization of violence in Nicaragua

In this article (Journal of Peace Research 2017, vol. 54, no. 5), Visiting Professor Dennis Rodgers highlights how gang socialisation is not only a variable multilayered process, but also a very volatile one, which suggests that the socialisation of violence and its consequences are not necessarily enduring.

WORKING PAPER | Does Greece Need More Official Debt Relief? If So, How Much?

In this PIIE Working Paper (no. 17-6, 2017), Jeromin Zettelmeyer, Eike Kreplin and Ugo Panizza first show that the disagreement as to whether Greece should receive additional official debt relief, and if so how much, can be attributed to competing assumptions about Greece's future capacity to repay, particularly about economic growth and the fiscal primary balance. They next evaluate the plausibility of alternative primary balance assumptions using international evidence about fiscal adjustment experiences.
