

Women, Power, and Cancer: A Lancet Commission

Global Launch of the Commission Report

14:00 – 16:30pm CET

Wednesday, 27 September 2023

Pictet Auditorium, Geneva Graduate Institute

Chemin Eugène-Rigot 2A, Case postale 1672, CH - 1211 Geneva 1

This Commission was created to investigate the nexus of women, power, and cancer. By applying an intersectional feminist approach, we investigate, expose, and challenge the prevailing asymmetries of power in relation to cancer in three key domains: decision-making, knowledge, and economics. For more information about the Commission, visit <https://womenandcancercommission.org>.

The Commission launch is presented by The Lancet, the U.S. National Cancer Institute, GENDRO, The Geneva Graduate Institute, and ecancer, and will feature Commission speakers, including co-chair Dr. Ophira Ginsburg, Senior Scientific Officer and Senior Advisor for Clinical Research at the U.S. National Cancer Institute, in a discussion of key findings and recommendations of the report and a moderated panel discussion with thought leaders in global health and development, cancer policy, and women's rights. Panels will be moderated by Dr. Vania Wisdom, Executive Editor and Oncology Ambassador at The Lancet, and Dr. Richard Horton, Editor-in-Chief at The Lancet.

Confirm your in-person attendance to Ms. Maria Castrillo Gill at maria@ecancer.org or register for virtual attendance at <https://bit.ly/GlobalWPC Lancet Commission>.
