

© Geneva Academy / Tim Young.

Mô Bleeker | Class of 1991

Mô Bleeker is a globally respected expert, facilitator in peace processes, atrocity prevention, transitional justice, and conflict transformation. She spent much of her career with the Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs (FDFA), playing pivotal roles in several peace processes and post-conflict transitions, including as Chair of the Transitional Justice and Reconciliation Commission in the Philippines, Special Envoy for Colombia's peace agreements, chair of the Global Action Against Mass Atrocity Crimes (GAAMAC). Appointed as Special Adviser to the United Nations Secretary-General on the Responsibility to Protect in 2024, her groundbreaking work has redefined approaches to prevention and transitional justice. Mô Bleeker's enduring legacy lies in her innovative participatory methodologies, commitment to human rights, and unfaltering resolve to fostering sustainable peace worldwide.

© Transitional Justice & Reconciliation Commission (TJRC), Philippines / Bangsamoro.

In her work as Chair of the Transitional Justice and Reconciliation Commission in the Philippines from 2014 to 2020, Mô Bleeker worked with facilitators from the "Listening Process" in more than 300 communities in the Bangsamoro.

© Geneva Initiative.

Mô Bleeker is pictured above with the team from the Geneva Israel-Palestine Initiative, with whom she worked for nearly nine years as a mediator and transitional justice expert to develop a joint document on the topic.

© UN Photo / Eskinder Debebe.

Mô Bleeker was appointed as UN Special Adviser on the Responsibility to Protect, a global political commitment to prevent and protect populations from the worst forms of violence and persecution, by UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres in April 2024.

