

The Sudans

Africa's Search for Peace, Democracy, and Two Viable States

Alex de Waal and Willow Berridge with a foreword by President Thabo Mbeki

“An important contribution that traces so well the work of the AUPD and AUHIP during one of the most significant periods of recent history in the Sudans. Essential reading to understand the current crisis in both countries.”

— Abdalla Hamdok, former Prime Minister of Sudan

“The Sudans is an insightful, meticulously documented study. It departs from the tendency to view the conflicts that have transpired in these two countries in isolation and comprehensively traces them from slavery to colonial rule, and since independence.”

— Francis Deng, former UN Special Representative on Internally Displaced Persons

The Sudans tells the story of the African Union’s efforts to make peace in the Sudans between 2009 and 2013. It details the work of the AU High-Level Panel to resolve the war in Darfur, promote democracy in Sudan, and steer the independence of South Sudan. Led by former South African President Thabo Mbeki, the AUHIP’s measures comprised Africa’s most ambitious peace-making effort.

Meticulously documenting every step, Alex de Waal and Willow Berridge show how Mbeki’s team handled disputes over borders, resources, and citizenship, channeling fractious international actors into a consensus. They track the panel’s consultative, people-focused strategy in Darfur and its patient, unflagging mediation between north and south. Ultimately, however, the leaders of Sudan and South Sudan squandered opportunities to establish two viable, mutually supporting states, setting both countries on the path toward calamity.

Authoritative and clear-eyed, The Sudans takes readers behind the scenes of this historic effort, revealing the potential of African-led peacemaking.

ALEX DE WAAL is Executive Director of the World Peace Foundation at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University.

WILLOW BERRIDGE is Senior Lecturer in History at Newcastle University.
